ON THE BLOCK — The sprawling 876-acre Two Rock Ranch Army Station, west of Petaluma, has fallen under the economic axe of the Department of Defense. The post, which includes many post-World War II housing units, administrative buildings and a recently completed dispensary, will be up for grabs for a new use after the June 30 deactivation. Housing units, including 84 enlisted family units and 13 officer quarters, are at left, with post headquarters, communication center and training building in the large cluster at right. Two Rock Army Station Will Close

By BONNIE BARD

After months of speculation by the public and denial by the Department of Defense, the department announced yesterday that Two Rock Ranch Army Station, west of Petaluma will begin phase-out on March 31 with the post to be closed by June 30.

Eliminated will be 332 military and 83 civilian jobs at an annual saving of $2.5 million, according to the department.

The latest denial of closure plans or intention by the Defense Department was made two weeks ago when Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, told local officials that no decision had been made and there was no plan to close the post "in the immediate future."

The Independent-Journal first reported rumors of the Two Rock closing on July 1, 1970, but the Defense Department denied that such a move was contemplated.

Col. Joseph Richards, base commander, said he received the closure notice yesterday afternoon. He said that after the base is fully deactivated on June 30, it will be placed on caretaker status with 19 men assigned to the post for another 12 to 15 months.

Richards said that a personnel officer will be on the post Monday to counsel the 83 civilian employees about other government job opportunities in the area. The commander said he hoped all the civilian employees could be placed although the job market is tight in the private sector.

Reassignment instructions will be given to the 332 military personnel in two or three weeks, Richards said. It has been unofficially reported that many of the men will be reassigned to Vint Hill Farms, Va. and to Fort Devon, Mass.

Petaluma Chamber of Commerce manager Burdette A. Shannon, who had been leading the local fight to keep the post open, was outspoken in his criticism today.

"Both our representative and the department of defense indicated the action wouldn't be taken when they knew darn well it would," he said. Shannon and the chamber have been the most concerned about the economic effects of the closing and the loss of the annual $2.5 million payroll.

Shannon said that Clausen has suggested the chamber form a local committee to look into possible new uses for the 876-acre site.

Shannon said such a committee, no doubt, would be formed, but said he could not get excited about it since there's virtually no chance of returning the property to use for at least two years.

Under the law, the Defense Department must first offer the property to other military agencies. If they can find no use, the General Services Administration would see if other government agencies can use the facilities. If none is found, the original property owners would have an opportunity to reclaim the land. Shannon said it is not known if the original ranchers are still in the area or would be interested in recapturing the land.

When the three prescribed channels have been exhausted, the installation would become available for public use or private purchase.

Petaluma City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer and Police Chief Larry D. Higgins have suggested the federal government use the facilities for a law enforcement academy. Meyer has said he visualizes the station as a future "FBI Academy of the West."

The Cotati Chamber of Commerce has proposed the land be used for a national cemetery.

Reds May Use Missiles, Tanks In Sepone Area

2,000 Saigon Troops Rushed To Ho Trail Hub For Battle

SAIGON (UPI) — Military spokesmen said today the Communists had concentrated missile sites and massed up to 50 tanks for the defense of Sepone against a force of 2,000 South Vietnamese troops closing in on the Ho Chi Minh Trail roadway hub in Laos.

Field reports said 2,000 South Vietnamese troops had driven to within three miles and perhaps within sight of Sepone, main objective of the 25-day offensive against the trail.

The South Vietnamese troops were fanning out around Sepone after being flown aboard U.S. helicopters into landing zones blasted out of the jungles by 15,000-pound blockbuster bombs parachuted from American transport planes.

The blast from the big bombs ripped away trees and foliage and created landing zones the size of football fields.

Military spokesmen said U.S. aircraft had been fired on by 20 missiles around Sepone in what was described as the first major Communist use of Soviet-built antiaircraft rockets outside North Vietnam.

Military sources said North Vietnamese commanders had pulled at least two armored units, each with 25 tanks, into a defensive circle around Sepone, a town 27 miles inside Laos where the Communists were reported to have established a major command center.

The 2,000-man South Vietnamese force was leapfrogged west from positions closer to the South Vietnamese border over the past two days.

"I think they can see Sepone very clearly from there," a spokesman said in placing the force within three miles of Sepone.

The first major battle around Sepone was reported Thursday when a South Vietnamese infantry battalion of more than 600 men fought Communist forces in a three-hour fight and reported killing 42 North Vietnamese six miles southeast of Sepone. South Vietnamese losses were placed at three killed.

There was no indication of the number of Communist troops in the Sepone region or whether the Reds had aban-

Nixon Defends His War Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon said Thursday night the invasion of Laos has insured continued withdrawal of U.S. troops. He said his goal remained to get all Americans out of Vietnam "as soon as we can."

During a sometimes emotional defense of his Indochina policies at a televised news conference, Nixon also declared the United States has considered no plan to support a South Vietnamese invasion of North Vietnam.

"None has been considered and none is under consideration," Nixon said. But the President said he did not rule out the use of air power "against military complexes on the borders of North Vietnam" if he concluded actions of the Hanoi regime endangered withdrawing American forces.

The Hanoi delegation to the Vietnam peace talks in Paris said Nixon was setting the stage for "acts of war and new extremely dangerous military adventures against the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam."

The Hanoi delegation warned that "any military adventure undertaken by the United States and its servants against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam will be severely punished."

Nixon contended the three-week-old South Vietnamese thrust into the Ho Chi Minh trail complex in southern Laos, backed by U.S. air power, has "seriously damaged" North Vietnamese military capabilities. He quoted Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in Vietnam, that the drive already had cut Communist truck traffic by 55 per cent on the trail.

While there was "hard fighting ahead," Nixon said, the decrease in traffic meant "that those trucks that do not go south will not carry the arms and the men that will be killing Americans."

Nixon said that during the current operations the South Vietnamese "on the ground by themselves" had taken on the best units the North Vietnamese could put into the field.

"General Abrams tells me that in both Laos and Cambodia his evaluation after three weeks of fighting is that to use his terms 'the South Vietnamese by themselves can hack it' and they can give a better account of themselves even than the North Vietnamese units."

While the operation has been in progress, Nixon said, American troop strength in the war zone has fallen by 10,000 men.

"Our Vietnamization program is a success and can continue on schedule and we trust even ahead of schedule assuming that there is more progress in Laos," Nixon said.

The United States is scheduled to cut its forces in South Vietnam to 284,000 men by May 1. Nixon said he intended to make an announcement about further American troop withdrawals in April. Asked about the possibility 50,000 to 100,000 U.S. troops might remain in Vietnam at the time of the 1972 election, Nixon declined to speculate about the numbers.

"As long as there are American POWs in North Vietnam, we will have to maintain a residual force in South Vietnam," Nixon said. "That is the least that we can negotiate for. As far as our goal is concerned, our goal is to

Larkspur Ferry Site Is Backed

The Central Marin ferry terminal should be located in Larkspur near Hutchinson's Quarry, Marin's City-County Planning Council decided by majority vote last night.

Despite a fervent pitch for a terminal in the South Corte Madera marshlands by C. W. Thomas of Corte Madera, the council voted 8-to-2 for the Larkspur site. Joining Thomas in voting against the Larkspur site was Novato City Councilman George Queseda.

San Anselmo City Councilman Woodrow V. Capurro and Allan Creighton of San Anselmo abstained.

The recommendation for the Larkspur site will be sent to the Golden Gate Bridge District board, who will make the site selection.

The city planning council also approved a 1971-72 planning budget of $103,000, which is up about $12,000 from this year's $91,000, plus $66,000 for the balanced transportation program, up $18,000 from this year's $48,000.

Selection Of Ferry Terminal Is Stymied

Selection of a Central Marin Ferry terminal site, aggravated by a new obstacle, was stymied again for Golden Gate Bridge District directors yesterday.

The district's attorney, Thomas M. Jenkins, announced after a two-hour hearing, much of it behind closed doors, that there still was "a complete lack of consensus."

Rumors circulated today that the promoter-developer of the Larkspur site had withdrawn the Hutchinson Quarry property from consideration. They were denied by city and development officials.

They attributed the rumor to someone's impatience with the failure of the bridge district to make a decision.

Mayor Benton A. Sifford Jr. said there was "a lot of kidding" about withdrawing after the board meeting yesterday but he said that's all it amounted to. He added he felt the rumor was started by "someone fed up" with the lack of action by the bridge district board.

The rumor also brought denial from John J. Ford III of San Francisco, attorney for TI Properties of Los Angeles, promoter of the Larkspur site.

"Let's not mince words," he said, "there has been no withdrawal.

Board president Lowell Edington of Napa told newsmen yesterday that the board would try again for a decision at a meeting to be called within two weeks.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring said that the board, during a 65-minute closed session to discuss appraisals, had asked for more information on soil borings to show what kind of construction costs would be faced at the two competing sites.

The two sites are the Hutchinson quarry property in Larkspur, north of the mouth of the Corte Madera Creek, and the Dominic Muzzi property at the south end of Corte Madera's marshy waterfront.

The new obstacle was the Nature Conservancy's declaration that it will not allow the district to dredge a channel across the underwater parcel it owns in front of the Corte Madera property. The organization's attorney, Stephan Steinau, said it feared the channel would allow Muzzi to use some 300 acres he owns outboard of the conservancy's property.

Steinau acknowledged that the organization also was concerned with the ecological impact on the Larkspur site, but had decided that the impact could be worse if the terminal went on the Corte Madera site.

The Nature Conservancy acquired its property off Corte Madera, as it has elsewhere in the bay, to "checkerboard" properties further out in the

Judge Hits Deductions Of Needy

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A superior court judge in Alameda County told the state of California yesterday to stop enabling welfare recipients to make far-reaching business deductions in order to stay on public assistance.

Judge Robert Kroninger issued a permit injunction in a suit brought by Marin and six other counties protesting the high number of persons with moderate and high incomes on the Aid to Families with Dependent Children rolls. Arguments on the suit were heard last week.

Kroninger ordered the state to implement "reasonable" deduction of business expenses by working recipients within 60 days.

The counties argued that AFDC recipients who got jobs were permitted "objectionable" deductions in order to continue to qualify for monthly grants. The "objectionalbe" deductions cited in the suit were the costs of transportation to and from work, child care expenses, educational and vocational training costs, union dues, tools and licences, special safety devices and telephone service.

In upholding the counties, pending an expected appeal by the state, Judge Kroninger said the sweeping deductions violated the equal protection clause of the state constitution and violated constitutional prohibition of gifts of public funds.

The state claimed in last week's arguments that the deductions were made according to federal law, but Judge Kroninger said the state was not interpeting the law properly.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Elizabeth Palmer argued that the counties' suit should have been brought against the federal government for permitting the deductions in the first place.

Kroninger also ordered the state to require recipients to include income tax rebates as income, rather than as a non-deductible "resource" and said the state must stop making

Abuses In Uses Of Food Stamps

By WAT TAKESHITA

The food stamp program, whereby low income families can buy food at discount, is fine in theory but subject to many abuses in practice, Marin County's welfare chief declared yesterday.

Betty L. Presley, director of the department of public social services, said she became concerned with abuses such as bartering of food stamps, and asked the Department of Agriculture for an investigation last December.

On Dec. 9, she met with Kemper Rogers, agriculture department officer in charge of Sonoma and Marin, and Eileen Jensen, chief of the food stamp bureau in Sacramento, to see what could be done about plugging some of the loopholes. She has received no word since from Sacramento.

1. Food stamp coupons issued are just like currency, and the unscrupulous can barter them for cash or nonfood items.

2. Eligibility requirements for food stamps are far more lenient than for public assistance. Therefore, a person who cannot get on welfare because of refusal to work is still eligible for food stamps on the basis of no income.

3. A single person who has no income can get $28 worth of food coupons for 50 cents. "This is ridiculous," said Miss Presley. She suggested to the department of agriculture that this scale be eliminated.

The Marin County Department of Public Social Services administers the food stamp program, under rules set down by the agriculture department.

This is how it operates:

Individuals or families on public assistance are automatically eligible for food stamps. Non-aid families are also eligible if their income is below a certain level.

One need not be flat broke to qualify for food stamps. A single person may have up to $1,000 in liquid assets (not including a car or insurance) and a family of two or more may have up to $1,500 in liquid assets.

The net family income, after certain deductions, cannot be more than $185 per month for a single person, $405 per month for a family of five, or $670 for a family of 10. Deductions include such items as medical costs, transportation cost up to $30 per month, child care for working mothers, and legal responsibility such as alimony and child support.

Phyllis Henneberger, who directs the food stamp program in Marin, said that a single person with a monthly income of $385 is sometimes eligible for

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Key Moon Landing

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Apollo 15 commander David R. Scott expects this summer's lunar landing mission to tell so much about the moon it "probably will be the greatest scientific exploration carried out by man."

"The vastly improved scientific returns will be almost overwhelming," Scott told 1,000 workers who are preparing for the July 26 launching. "With your help, we'll bring back enough data to keep the scientific community busy for 30 years."

Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin are scheduled to spend 12 days in space, half of that time spent on or around the moon. It will be the nation's fifth moon landing expedition and it is by far the most ambitious. Apollo 13 never landed due to an oxygen tank explosion.

'Split U.S.-Israel'

By United Press International

An influential Egyptian editor told the Arabs today to strive to break up the alliance between the United States and Israel, and ensure that the United States would stay out of a Middle East war.

Diplomatic efforts were being pursued in New York in an attempt to obtain an extension of the cease-fire which expires Sunday. The concensus among diplomats in Israel and Egypt was that a de facto truce would remain even if there were no formal extension.

The ambassadors of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France scheduled another meeting in New York today after failing Thursday to work out a Big Four position on the cease-fire.

Indian Riots

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Police in the textile city of Coimbatore charged with truncheons Thursday into a mob of about 500 partisans trying to storm a polling booth.

In Ambur Town in Madras state, campaign workers from two rival parties fought in front of a polling station. Several persons were injured and one shop was burned.

The two incidents were the latest violence since India began its 10-day national parliamentary elections March 1.

Quake Victims Get Job Aid

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Employers and their workers may be eligible for unemployment insurance if their place of work was damaged by the Feb. 9 earthquake, the Labor Department said Thursday.

Under terms of the Disaster Relief Act of 1969, such victims have until April 16 to make unemployment claims, an announcement said. Assistance can be calculated from the day of the quake.

CHARLES MANSON
He cut his hair

'LSD Brainwash'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson's power over his followers combined with their chronic use of LSD enabled the cult leader to "make them into robots" and could conceivably program them "to go out and kill," a prominent psychiatrist testified Thursday.

Dr. Joel Fort, author of the "The Pleasure Seekers" and a founder of the Free Clinic in San Francisco, told the penalty phase of the Tate-Labianca murder trial that Manson's influence over his followers was the most important factor which led to the seven slayings.

Fort was called as witness for defendant Leslie Van Houten and said her use of LSD and the use of the drug by other members of the "Manson family" undoubtedly swayed them more to Manson's personality.

Manson's attorney, Irving Kanaret, then asked Fort, "Are you telling us a school for crime can exist?"

"I'm indeed telling you that, although the way you're putting it is a rather absurd oversimplification," Fort replied. "Minds of men are indeed molded in totalitarian societies or by totalitarian individuals. LSD can make a person more malleable ... more easy to program."

Patrol Car Is Gutted By Blaze

A Sausalito police car was gutted today by a flash fire which began under the vehicle's dashboard, apparently caused by a short in the wiring, police reported.

Police said officer Blake Hoffman was driving the patrol unit on Spencer Avenue near Highway 101 about 6:15 a.m. when the car burst into flames. The officer managed to exit the burning vehicle, but received first and second degree burns on his right hand when he reached back in to retrieve his shotgun, police said.

Troops Halt Rioting At Bus

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British troops charged Friday into a crowd of rioting Roman Catholics angered by an army search for weapons.

"Mr. Reece, hold this ground for the queen!" a young lieutenant yelled at a subordinate as his 300 men dodged barrages of gasoline bombs and sniper fire from rioters who had put the torch to a red double-decker bus.

The troops, carrying clubs and tear gas guns, pushed forward to the place where the flaming bus partially blocked the street in the Catholic Falls Road area, and the rioters fled.

Detroit's Time .

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government is expected to extend its deadline to the auto industry for a restraint system capable of preventing injury to passengers involved in a 30-mile-an-hour head-on crash, it was learned today.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Agency will give the industry another month —from July 1, 1973 to mid-August 1973. The extension will give the industry enough time to start the changeover to 1973 model cars.

The industry itself however wanted the deadline extended to 1975, claiming the time was needed to perfect a reliable restraint system.

No Dior Sale

PARIS (UPI) —The house of Christian Dior today denied rumors its high fashion salon was closing, and said the house is "no more for sale than the Eiffel Tower."

Rumors the largest salon in the world's fashion capital was in financial trouble stemmed from a January announcement that Moet et Chandon Champagne Co. had bought a controlling interest in Dior perfume.

French and American publications speculated Moet et Chandon would choose champagne over clothes and that the Dior high fashion collections of Marc Bohan would be abandoned.

Subway Plan For Airport Wins Backing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A team of consultants said today that the best way to provide rapid transit service to San Francisco International Airport is by means of a subway.

The report to the San Francisco Airport Access Project's board of control and says the cost would be $286.4 million, including a $54.8 million distribution system within the airport.

Running tracks above ground to the airport from the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's station would cost $127.3 million less, but would not be as satisfactory, the consultants said.

The board of control represents BART, San Mateo County and San Francisco.

Ex-Colonel Says Clubs 'Shocking'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A reform-minded former colonel has told Senate investigators he ordered the inner doors removed from a massage parlor on his base to keep a beautiful "dragon lady" from turning it into a 400-girl brothel.

In colorful testimony before the Senate investigations subcommittee Thursday, retired Col. Edmund Castle related how he struggled to clean up the shady, slipshod service clubs he inherited along with his command of the Long Binh, Vietnam, Army post in 1968.

He also said he saw no reason why there should be service clubs complete with drinks and dancing girls in a war zone in the first place because "the more a soldier drinks in a combat zone, the more trouble you have."

Castle blamed the "shocking situation" he found at Long Binh on former Brig. Gen. Earl F. Cole, who had been deputy chief of staff and in charge of clubs and post exchanges at the huge headquarters base. Other witnesses have testified Cole was deeply involved not only with unscrupulous businessmen who provided slot machines, liquor and other goods to the clubs but also with club managers who were indicted recently on corruption charges.

Castle, shipped home with severe wounds and a Silver Star after an attack on Long Binh in February, 1969, said it was Cole who authorized a beautiful Vietnamese nicknamed "the dragon lady" to build a steam bath and massage parlor on the base.

Castle said Mme. Phoung had planned to staff her bath house with 200 masseuses and another 200 girls to sit around and drink cokes with the soldiers."

"I knew she had an awful lot more than sitting around drinking in mind," Castle said. "We had so many clubs they could get drunk before they got there. So I got rid of 200 of the girls and ordered the doors taken off the massage rooms.

"You'd go in there and see the boys, they'd be lying there as naked as jaybirds with the girls massaging them. But they couldn't do much else, because we had the doors."

Trudeau, 51, Takes A Wife, 22

Trudeau, 51, a bachelor with an eye for pretty girls and a reputation as an indefatiguable swinger, married Margaret Sinclair, 22, the daughter of James Sinclair, a prominent businessman, former minister of fisheries and a longtime leader in the Liberal Party Trudeau now heads.

The announcement of the marriage came as a surprise to most Canadians. "He was here at 1 o'clock for the cabinet meeting," Secretary of State Gerard Pelletier said in Ottawa.

The Trudeaus left for a skiing honeymoon at Alta Lake at the foot of the popular Whistler Mountain ski complex, about 100 miles north of Vancouver. Jack Bright, area manager for Whistler, said the couple was expected to stay for an indefinite period.

The parents of the bride said the wedding was so secret that their other four daughters did not know about it until 90 minutes before the ceremony.

Trudeau, who had not been married before, gained the nickname "the playboy prime minister" for his dates with such well-known women such as singer Barbra Streisand and French-Canadian actress Louise Marleau.

Trudeau's relationship with Miss Sinclair was unknown to most Canadians, although an aunt of the bride said the couple had been seeing each other for three years.

The wedding ceremony was quiet and limited to members of both families.

MIDDLE INCOMES

'Forgotten Americans' Home Loans Due Soon

Money from a new federal home loan program aimed at "forgotten Americans" — those with middle incomes — should soon become available in Marin.

How much actual help it will be in a county where housing is so expensive remains to be seen.

"We're just waiting for a set of regulations," Fred S. Enemark, executive vice president of Bell Savings and Loan Association in San Rafael, said about the new subsidy program called "housing opportunity allowance program," (HOAP).

The first batch of nationwide money — $85 million — was recently voted by Congress for HOAP. It was the first installment on a $250 million authorization contained in the Emergency Home Finance Act of 1970.

The money will be channeled through savings and loan associations and will be used to provide $20-a-month subsidies to qualified families.

Preston Martin, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board which serves savings and loan associations, calls it a "bootstrap" approach.

The new program will lower purchasers' monthly payments by a flat $20 a month during a limited five-year period. At the end of the five years, the homeowner will have to take over the full payments.

"Twenty dollars may not seem like a lot, but on an 8 per cent mortgage of $20,000 with a 25-year maturity, it will lower monthly payments from $154 to $134," Martin said.

To be eligible for HOAP, Marin residents must earn not more than $7,492 annually for a single person; $8,100 for a couple; $9,112 for a three-person family; $9,922 for four persons, or $11,542 for six persons.

Patrick H. Price of Mill Valley, a senior vice president with San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Association, said that he views the program as most helpful to young families who cannot now quality for conventional loans.

The young executive with the growing family who can expect his income to rise during the next few years seems to be the type of person who will qualify for HOAP, and Price pointed out that Marin has many such families.

Other savings and loan officials were doubtful privately, however, that the program will be much help in Marin.

"Most of the people in those income brackets looking for housing are older people," one officer said.

In the meantime, savings and loan officers said that as soon as the government provides a set of regulations, they will start taking loan applications under the new program.

Fictitious Name Filing Required

Beginning July 1, all individuals and firms doing business for profit under a factitious name will be required to file a new fictitious name statement, according to George H. Gnoss, Marin County clerk.

A fictitious name as defined by the county is one that does not include the surname of the operator or one that implies the existence of other owners. For corporations, the name is considered fictitious if it includes a name other than the name given in the articles of incorporation.

All certificates on file prior to Jan. 1, 1971, will expire on June 20, the county clerk said. Under the new law, the filing fee is $10. Filings can be made at the county clerk's office in the Civic Center.

Hearing Set On Pot Possession

Richard W. Golden, 22, of San Rafael, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of possessing marijuana.

He is to be arraigned Monday.

Golden was arrested Feb. 9 after a search at his apartment revealed a six-pound cache of marijuana, according to Marin County Sheriff's Deputies.

Bagley Cautiously Backs Reagan's Welfare Plan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, yesterday cautiously endorsed Gov. Ronald Reagan's welfare overhaul proposals.

Bagley, chairman of the Assembly Welfare Committee, which will hear the governor's proposals when introduced as legislation, cautioned that many of them were needed for the present, but that long-range solution would depend on the Nixon Administration's family assistance plan.

Reagan opposes the national plan, and Bagley said he hoped the governor "will re-think his opposition."

The veteran assemblyman said the governor's proposal to limit aid to the truly needy "is beyond reproach. The effort to make some sense out of aid to the aged, blind and disabled by establishing a flat pension program is a major step forward."

Bagley also welcomed the proposals to put maximums on total income of welfare recipients and a maximum on income exemptions.

Bagley said "it is beyond comprehension that we should be spending more than $400 million a year to administer the California welfare system." But he cautioned against savings "at the expense of people who are the victims of a tight labor market."

Job Bias Bill Aimed At Elks

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to prohibit the Elks Club and other groups which discriminate in membership from also discriminating in employment has been introduced by Assemblyman Leon Ralph.

"This will do away with blatant discrimination in hiring practiced by groups like the Elks, an organization that already has too much room for maneuvering within our tax laws and licensing regulations," the Los Angeles Democrat said.

Ralph, a black, said most employers now are prohibited from discrimination in job hiring by the State Fair Employment Practices Act, but that social clubs, fraternal, charitable or educational associations and religious groups are exempted. His bill would eliminate the exemption for all but "bona fide" religious groups.

Car Crash Bill Stalled In Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill to improve the ability of autos to withstand low-speed crashes is stalled in a legislative committee.

The Assembly Transportation Committee Thursday postponed action on the measure by Assemblyman Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento, for six weeks.

Tom Knight of the California Manufacturers Association and Charles Hoagland of the Automobile Manufacturers Association asked for the delay. They said the National Highway Safety Bureau was expected to issue federal crash standards in late April and federal regulations would supersede state law.

Greene's bill would require new cars beginning with 1975 models to be able to withstand crashes of up to 5 miles per hour without damage except to the part of the car directly hit such as the bumper.

State DAR Cites FBI Chief Hoover

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Daughters of the American Revolution closed its 63rd annual conference by voting "vigorous commendation" of FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Other resolutions opposed a proposed United Nations "global sales tax," any extension of trade with Commmunist countries, and national health insurance. The group called for reactivation of the Subversive Activities Control Board and curbing the powers of the Supreme Court.

Four Booked After High-Speed Chases

Five persons, four of them Novato residents, were booked into Marin County Jail early today for investigation of a variety of charges after two high-speed auto chases on Marin highways, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Don Edward O'Brien, 32, of 85 Montego Key, and Lt. William Chris Eickhof III, 24, of Travis Air Force Base, Solano County, were charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, reckless driving and engaging in a speed contest in one incident which occurred on Highway 101 at 2:01 a.m.

Officers said they noticed O'Brien and Eickof racing northbound on the freeway near Alto and attempted to stop both sports cars. But the highway patrol said both autos accelerated and were chased at speeds up to 120 miles an hour until both were caught near Corte Madera. O'Brien came close to striking another vehicle traveling on 101 during the chase, officers said.

O'Brien was held in lieu of $360 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court and Eickhof was released on his promise to appear in court Monday.

In a second incident, Albert William Ferguson, 24, of 1310 Leafwood Drive, Novato, — pursued on Lucas Valley Road at 100 miles per hour — was booked for investigation of driving under the influence of alcohol and failure to yield to a red light.

Michael Robert Rundle, 20, of 1316 Cambridge Street, Novato, a passenger in the car, was booked for investigation of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and a 17-year-old Novato teen-ager was turned over to juvenile authorities for being intoxicated. Another passenger, Phillip McFarren, 20, of 1308 Leafwood Drive, was booked on suspicion of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Officers noticed the Ferguson car, which they said was proceeding in an erratic manner, northbound on 101 about 1:45 a.m. When the officer tried to make a stop of the vehicle, he said it accelerated and took the Lucas Valley turnoff. The Ferguson car was finally stopped when it went out of control after a 16-mile chase, according to the highway patrol.

Rundle and Ferguson were released on their promise to appear in municipal court Monday and McFarren was freed on $625 bail to appear in court, also Monday.

Rights Fuss Probe Near: Panel Ready

Milen C. Dempster of Mill Valley, a retired member of the National Labor Relations Board, was named today as the fifth member and chairman of a fact-finding committee to investigate the squabble between the Marin Human Rights Commission and the Police Community Relations Program.

The other members of the committee are Parnel Finn and I. Wayland Bonbright of the county personnel commission and Richard Harding and Charles B. Weers of the human rights commission.

Dempster was picked unanimously at the Civic Center after a two-week search for candidates.

Dempster served for 22 years on the National Labor Relations Board before he retired last June. He was also chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union for eight years, and is past chairman of the Family Service Agency. He is treasurer of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs.

On Feb. 2, the Marin County Board of Supervisors established the fact-finding committee to delve into friction that caused a split between the human rights department and the police-community relations program, headed by Bella H. Aaron.

The fact-finding committee will meet with the county supervisors at 1:45 p.m. next Tuesday to get instructions on exactly what areas it should investigate.

Wealthy Widow Dies In Blaze

ORINDA (UPI)—The widow of paint manufacturer Walter Boysen and her father were burned to death today in a blaze which destroyed the $250,000 Boysen mansion.

Fire investigators said there was evidence suggesting the pre-dawn fire was caused by arson.

They also said other victims may be found in the charred ruins. A maid and a house guest were unaccounted for.

The body of a woman found in the fire was identified as that of Mrs. Boysen. A man's body was tentatively identified as that of Charles Hoover, the 90-year-old invalid father of Mrs. Boysen.

payments to recipients when income exceeds need over a period of time.

Richard J. Moore, Alameda County counsel who argued the suit in the counties' behalf, said today the judge's order, if sustained, would "correct a lot of the abuses resulting from the interpretation of regulations by the state."

These regulations, he said, resulted in recipients with "high incomes remaining on the rolls."

Moore said he was uncertain how many recipients would be affected by the injunction, but added: "I've heard the figure bandied about that there are tens of thousands of people about the state involved and the money runs into many millions of dollars."

Guilty Plea To Pot Possession

Bruce Thomas Badaracco, 26, of Fairfax, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced misdemeanor charge of possessing marijuana.

He earlier had been charged with a felony count of the same charge. An additional charge of drunken driving was dismissed yesterday by Judge Peter Allen Smith at the request of the district attorney's office which reported the alleged drunken driving occurred on private property and not on a public roadway.

Badaracco is to be sentenced April 2.

He was arrested Feb. 6 after he sped into a service station in Corte Madera, narrowly missing an attendant and parked car and crashing into a gas pump.

When police arrived, they said they found a plastic bag of suspected marijuana in Badaracco's possession.

Demotion Of School Leaders Scheduled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Board of Education gave approval today to a reorganization program that will demote more than half of the city's 357 school administrators.

Board members, in approving the proposals of Supt. Thomas A. Shaheen, gave preference for retention to a handful of minority group men and women who have been recently added to the administration.

FERRY

water to prevent their development.

(Jenkins told the Independent-Journal that the district could condemn the Nature Conservancy's property, but noted that a 1970 state law made it more difficult to condemn property held for conservation purposes.)

The Nature Conservancy's position drew strong fire from Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum, a member of the bridge board. He said that the point of the ferry system was to get people out of cars. "You might be saving a little marshland at the expense of holding up the entire ferry system," he told Steinau.

Wornum also said its opposition violated conservationists' claims that tideland property owners could not bar access for navigation.

Wornum suggested that the district hire an environmental expert to evaluate the impact of the two sites on the ecology, but his proposal was not acted upon by the board.

Steinau responded that the Nature Conservancy could drop its opposition "if there were some change in probability of development outboard."

(Reports have circulated about land swaps to give this assurance to the Nature Conservancy, but its opposition yesterday indicated that the complicated arrangements still had not been made.)

Favoring the Larkspur site in separate letters were three members of the Marin County Transit District board of directors, Supervisor John F. McInnis, Tiburon Mayor Denis T. Rice and San Anselmo City Councilman Kenneth L. Anderson. They said it offered better access for both ferries and vehicles.

get all Americans out of Vietnam as soon as we can — by negotiation if possible."

Nixon said there had been a "drumbeat of suggestion" from some television commentators that the Laotian operation would not work. He said there had been the same kind of commentary during the Cambodian operation last spring. But he said the Cambodian venture had reduced U.S. casualties and led to a reduction in U.S. forces.

Questions at the news conference were restricted to foreign policy issues. Nixon also said:

—The United States will not impose a settlement in the Mideast. The United States will make suggestions but will depend upon the parties concerned to reach an agreement. The United States "will be there" to see that a balance of power is maintained in the region because if the balance changes a war could result.

—Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., fired "a cheap shot" when he said Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger had usurped the duties of Secretary of State William P. Rogers. He continues to consider Rogers "the chief foreign policy adviser."

—An American "two Chinas" policy is a "moot question" because Communist China has refused to respond to American overtures for normalization of relations. Nationalist Chinese apprehension about an American chance in policy "is not justified."

—He is optimistic about "eventual success" in Soviet-American talks aimed at limiting strategic nuclear weapons.

FOOD

food stamps because of the allowable deductions. But $385 per month is just about the limit for a single person.

Once eligibility is established, a sliding scale is used to determine how much discount a family or individual can get.

A single person with a net income of less than $20 per month pays 50 cents for $28 worth of food coupons. If he had a net income of $50 per month, he would pay $8 for $28 in coupons.If his net income is $100 per month, he would pay $8 for $28 in coupons. If his net income is $100 per month, he pays $18 for $28 worth of coupons.

For a family of four, here is the scale: If the family has a net income of less than $20, it pays $2 to get $106 in food coupons. A family with a net income of $100 per month pays $25 for $106 in food coupons. If the family has a net income of $360 per month, it pays $82 for $106 worth of food coupons.

Those eligible get authorization cares to purchase food coupons once a month (in some cases twice a month) from the Bank of America, Crocker Citizens Bank, Wells Fargo Bank, or the Cooperative Credit Union in Corte Madera. The Economic Opportunity Council office at 232 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo won authorization this week to become a distributor of food stamps.

These coupons cannot be redeemed in cash at the banks, but they are just like currency in every other respect. They can be bartered from person to person because there is no way to prove that certain persons were issued certain coupons.

Under federal law, the grocer "may require" a coupon user to produce identification, but this is not mandatory. Therefore, a coupon that is used in a grocery store may have been bartered for cash, cigarettes, or pot a dozen times before being used for the purpose for which it was originally intended.

Under the department of agriculture rules, coupons may be used only for purchase of food produced in the United States, plus coffee, tea, and bananas. They cannot be used to buy nonfood items like liquor, cigarettes, or household goods.

Miss Presley pointed out that quite often, this is what happens:

A customer fills up the grocery basket with food items, plus a bottle of liquor and a carton of cigarettes. When he pays in food coupons, the clerk tells him: "You can't buy liquor and cigarettes with coupons."

"All right," says the customer. And he produces cash from his pocket to pay for the liquor and cigarettes, using the coupons for the rest.

"There's no way to stop it," said Miss Presley. "It's quite legal, because each person and each family is entitled to have $1,000 or $1,500 in liquid assets."

Theoretically, a store is not allowed to redeem coupons in cash. However, a person who paid 50 cents to get $28 in coupons could presumably find a friendly clerk to give him a $20 bill for the coupons. The customer gains $19.50 and the store gains $8 in the transaction.

One way to reduce the abuses would be to issue coupons in the form of checks, which would be signed by the customer just as personal checks are signed, said Miss Presley. Another would be to eliminate what she calls the "ridiculous" scale of 50 cents for $28 worth of coupons. She said that a work test should also be applied so that an ablebodied person who can work but refuses would not be eligible for food stamps.

When Marin County started the food stamp program in April 1969, qualifying for food stamps were 727 households on welfare and 36 households not on welfare. In January of this year, Marin had a total of 4,444 households in the food stamp program. Of these, 2,011 were on public aid and 2,433 were not on public aid.

"The growth has been phenomenal, something we never dreamed of," said Miss Presley. This growth means more cost to the county, because in addition to the staff time to administer the program, the county pays 90 cents per transaction to the banks for handling the coupon sale.

If each family bought food stamps once a month, that would mean 4,444 transaction per month. At 90 cents per transaction, the county now pays about $4,000 per month in transaction fees alone, whereas back in April 1969, the total transaction fee was less than $700 per month.

doned the junction on French colonial Route 9, the axis of the South Vietnamese drive into Laos. But heavy fighting was reported elsewhere in Laos.

Some military observers had predicted the Communists would put up their heaviest fighting of the campaign to save Sepone, a road and supply junction where mountain passes from North Vietnam enter Laos. Today, a South Vietnamese spokesman said the South Vietnamese were so close "I think they can see Sepone very clearly."

The South Vietnamese said they had killed 821 Communists in fighting between 6 a.m. Wednesday and 6 p.m. Thursday and lost 36 dead and 248 wounded. In heavy fighting today and Thursday night the South Vietnamese said they killed 80 more to put the toll at 901 North Vietnamese dead, with 44 South Vietnamese killed and 261 wounded.

U.S. Air Force spokesmen in Saigon said more than 3,000 South Vietnamese marines had been flown into Laos with tanks, howitzers, jeeps and 2 1-2 ton trucks since Sunday, raising ARVN troop strength in Laos to 19,000. A force of 9,000 Americans was at the border to back the incursion.

James Stewart Paid Tribute

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)— Actor Jimmy Stewart was honored as "Man of the Year" Thursday night by Harvard University's Hasty Pudding theatricals.

Stewart received a golden replica of the original Hasty Pudding pot and said, "I want to warn everybody here interested in acting that it is very lethal. It'll get you hooked."

Stewart was honored before the group put on its 123rd production, "Rhinestones in the Rough," a spoof on an overage sex goddess who tries a comeback.

Reagan Confident His Welfare Package Will Be Implemented

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Gov. Ronald Reagan thinks the California Legislature will pass legislation implementing his welfare reform plan "after they get through playing games."

The governor made this prediction to Bay Area newspaper, radio and television editors yesterday as he barnstormed the state seeking media support for the plan.

He expressed surprise that Democrats in the Legislature had chosen to make welfare reform a political issue. At the recent governors' conference in Washington, he said, all 50 governors agreed that reform of the welfare system is necessary. "Every office in the federal government" and leaders of both houses of Congress, of both parties, also agree, he said.

But the plan he presented this week is the first comprehensive reform plan at a state level, declared Reagan — "we have the only ball game in town."

The governor and heads of the state Human Resources Division, Human Relations Agency, Department of Social Welfare, and Department of Health Care reviewed the plan. Several bills to implement to implement it will be introduced in the legislature within a week, they said.

Reagan stressed that the proposed reform will result in a saving for the counties as well as the state, according to figures prepared by his staff.

Working within present federal regulations, the state should save $201 million next fiscal year and the counties $73 million by the proposed changes, the editors were told.

These savings are expected to result from closing loopholes in welfare, tighter eligibility requirements, revision of Medi-Cal to make its benefits approximate those given by such prepaid health plans as the Kaiser Plan, administrative changes, and an increased effort to move able-bodied adults from welfare to gainful employment.

Some of the cost savings can be made by change in regulations, but to put the whole program into operation will require legislation, the governor emphasized.

16 Fail To Report For Draft

Sixteen out of 70 Marin men ordered to report for induction last month failed to show while eight others refused induction, Joy M. Kinzer, secretary of the Local Board 25 in San Rafael, said yesterday. Five were inducted.

Mrs. Kinzer said that two walked out after starting the induction process; eight failed to pass the pre-induction physical examination; eight were cancelled; two are pending further review by the board; 11 were temporarily postponed; and three transferred to other local boards.

Seven enlisted in the regular armed services, she reported.

The five men inducted were Walker S. Vaning and Charles C. Rada, both of San Rafael; Jack H. Rhodes III of South Lake Tahoe; James S. Illeberg of Novato; Michael A. Russell of San Anselmo.

Mrs. Kinzer said that 42 men with lottery numbers through 69 were ordered to report next Wednesday for this month's draft.

You're on the map in the I-J — all the news of your community.

You're on the map.

Few newspapers in the U.S. provide such complete coverage of local communities as you will find in the I-J. May we tell you why and also how we do it?

At first glance the I-J appears pretty much like other sizeable suburban daily newspapers. World and national news, wire services, major features — all there.

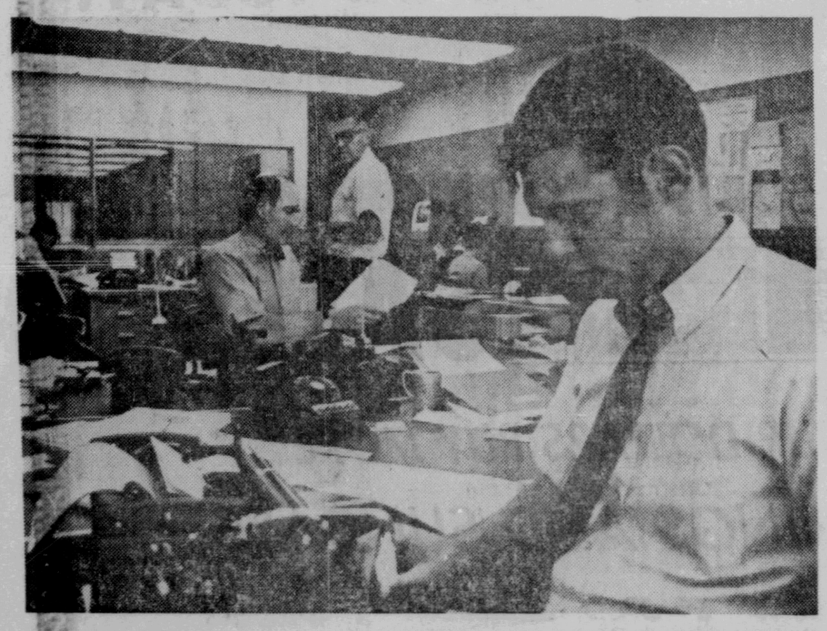
But as you turn the pages a "different" newspaper takes form. You quickly discover the world of your community and of every area in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties. A hundred stories and more each day on matters of intense local interest. A council decision, an educational problem, a new park, a fund-raising event, a club meeting — the whole spectrum of community living.

Why do we report all this and in detail? Because this news has a direct and often personal bearing upon you as a citizen . . . upon your family, your pocketbook, even your hopes. For this is not news of a vague "somewhere" but news that is close to home and close to your interests. We think it is a newspaper's responsibility to report it thoroughly — as well as the international scene.

How do we do it? First, we have the committment. Second, the largest news staff in Marin and So. Sonoma counties. And third, the facilities — local news bureaus in Mill Valley, Novato, the Civic Center, Petaluma, plus the resources of I-J headquarters in San Rafael. Also, it doesn't hurt that we have one of the most advanced newspaper production facilities in the country.

We may not report everything (no newspaper can). But day after day you will see the complete "news map" of all local communities forming before your eyes. Which means you're on the map . . . because you are kept thoroughly informed.

Read in almost 7 out of 10 homes in Marin County



A staff of 30 I-J reporters and editors covers the local scene. This is why we're able to report it so comprehensively.

CITY SLICKER WINS SHOOT-OUT

Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes, visiting Wichita, Kansas, to address the university there, participated in a Western-type "shoot-out" in the city's Cowtown Park. He and Wichita Mayor A. This is how Stokes, in true Western fashion, reacted to his "victory."

Erotic Performance Leads To 2 Arrests

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A young Marin couple, who told police they have appeared in virtually all the erotic films running in San Francisco movie houses, was arrested last night.

The couple — Michael, 29, and Frenchie Marsolais, 27, operators of a San Rafael clothing store that sells hippie-type goods — was arrested in a San Francisco motel room, police said, after performing sexual acts for an undercover officer.

Police said the officer answered an ad taken by the Marsolais's in the Berkeley Barb offering their services for pornographic movies. The officer arranged last night's meeting, police said, and took about 300 feet of film and still photographs as the pair performed a variety of sexual acts.

Police said the officer also was offered sexual relations with Mrs. Marsolais and the couple had marijuana with them.

The couple, who live in San Quentin Village and have an 11-month-old daughter, operate the Karmic Opera at 9 Vivian Way. According to police, Mrs. Marsolais completed five years of college and studied law at the University of Tennessee.

The Marsolaises were booked into city prison on suspicion of conspiracy, oral copulation, soliciting for prostitution and possession of marijuana. They are to appear Monday in municipal court.

Escaper Evades Lawmen But Hunt Turns Up Drugs

Thirty San Quentin officers yesterday joined a small army of lawmen in a raid on a Sonoma County hippie ranch in a search for an escaped murderer.

They didn't find Charles Grant Jolley, 32, who had been reported hiding out on the huge Wheeler ranch near Occidental, but 19 persons were arrested for investigation of drug offenses and several runaway youngsters picked up.

James W. L. Park, associate warden at San Quentin, said that a search warrant for the remote, 320-acre ranch had been obtained after another San Quentin escapee was captured there on Feb. 22.

The captured man, Ralph Ruiz, 35, also a murderer, had escaped from the prison along with Jolley on Jan. 18.

Sgt. John Gillette of the Sonoma County Sheriff's Department said that Jolley apparently had been at the ranch but got advance warning of yesterday's raid, which began about dawn, and fled.

About 70 officers, including the San Quentin guards, sheriff's deputies, state parole officers, Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, military police and juvenile officers, converged on the remote ranch.

Among those arrested was William Wheeler, 32, the ranch owner, who later was released from jail when he paid $44 in traffic warrants.

Wheeler, the son of a wealthy eastern manufacturer, has set up an "alternative life-style community" on the ranch, where about 200 persons live in some 75 buildings.

Yesterday was not Wheeler's first brush with Sonoma County officials. He is currently fighting a superior court injunction sought by officials who want to close the ranch because of lack of sanitation facilities.

Neighboring ranchers have also complained about "mysteriously disappearing farm animals," according to Sergeant Gillette.

During yesterday's raid authorities seized marijuana plants, they said. Most of those arrested remained in jail today on suspicion of cultivating and possessing pot.

One man, however, was held as an Army deserter, and among the runaways arrested was a 12-year-old from Georgia.

The history of the Wheeler estate has paralleled that of Morning Star Ranch, former folksinger Lou Gottlieb's property on the east side of Occidental. That ranch was also the scene of arrests involving drugs and fugitives and was finally closed by authorities.

'Street' Actors Freed From Sausalito Charges

Charges against three persons arrested in a Halloween fracas in Sausalito last year have been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court.

The three were among six persons charged after a street performance by a group of students and a professor from a Vermont College erupted into a free-for-all.

Last December, charges against one of the six were dismissed and another pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace and was fined $50 by Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Municipal Court.

The cases of Samuel French Kerson, 24; Clifton Harvey Keyes, 25, and the professor, Marc Estrin, 31, were continued until Wednesday when they were dismissed.

The sixth person charged, Charles Edward Cox, 23, is scheduled to stand trial April 15 on charges of disturbing the peace and obstructing the free movement of persons in a public place.

The group, which called itself "The American Playground," was staying in Mill Valley temporarily during a college work program which included putting on political street plays.

The fracas in Sausalito started after the players blocked a side walk and one lane of traffic on Bridgeway while performing. When a policeman asked the crowd to move and attempted to arrest one of the players, a free-for-all ensued.

Airman Committed To Mental Center

A 39-year-old Air Force sergeant who proclaimed he was Jesus, son of God, was committed to the Marin Community Mental Health Center today, according to San Rafael police.

S Sgt. Carl William Maier of 8 Laurel Place, San Rafael, was subdued by police at 2:25 a.m. at his home and transported to the mental health facility after predicting the world would rumble and come to an end, said police who responded to a report of a disturbance.

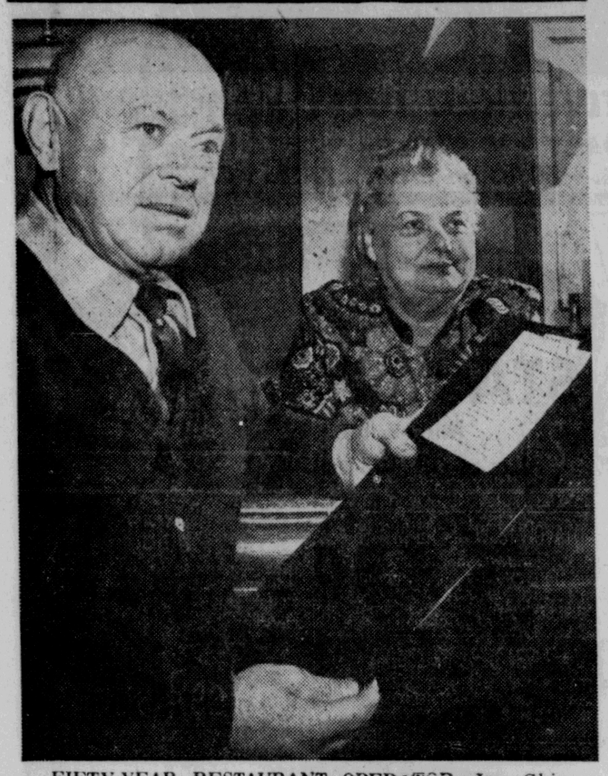
DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT



FIFTY-YEAR RESTAURANT OPERATOR—Joe Ghiringhelli of Fairfax passes a milestone in Marin food service this month. He and his wife Antoinette have spent 34 of those years at Deer Park Villa.

Ghiringhelli's Mark 50th Year For Fairfax' Deer Park Villa

A 50th anniversary of food service in Marin County is being celebrated this month by one of the county's venerable restaurateurs — Joe Ghiringhelli of the long popular Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

Joe, who was 75 in February, has not been all this time at Deer Park. It was his third venture — taken on by him and his wife Antionette in 1937 when they bought it from Dan Celanti, who had founded it 15 years before.

Joe's first food spot in Marin was the old Union Hotel at Fourth Street and Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael before he and Antionette were married. His second was nearby across the street and near the railroad tracks — the Tamalpais Hotel, which he and an older brother and uncle bought three years later.

Deer Park Villa was a sort of belated wedding present, purchased 10 years after Joe and Antionette were married. Both their families had been in the hotel or restaurant business before them and now their children and grandchildren are still carrying on the Ghiringhelli and Pagani traditions. You'll find several of them at Deer Park today.

Nominally Joe and Antionette like to think of themselves as the bosses, although son Bob is the one who has all the responsibilities of that title today.

There just isn't much need anymore for the older couple to get involved in the continued hard work that goes with a restaurant operation. But Joe can't resist lifting a pot lid now and then and Antionette still has something to say about the care and appearance of the dining room and bar.

And whatever magic Joe acquired in the kitchen during his many years of cooking has now been passed on to the restaurant itself and remains part of the Deer Park Villa tradition for fine Italian food.

THERE ARE TWO MORE restaurant anniversaries this month in Marin — but not for the length of time that Joe Ghiringhelli is celebrating.

Raymond and Eugenie Coscarat are just back from a trip to Mexico in time to observe their ninth year of operating Le Chalet Basque in Santa Venetia (it's also a fourth anniversary for them this month on acquiring their general on sale liquor license).

And it is a ninth anniversary for 39 Main in Tiburon — I didn't realize it had been open that long. Incidentally there's a $1 spaghetti feed here on Monday nights you might like ($1.50 with salad).

SCOMA'S OF SAUSALITO (where the Glad Hand used to be) is planning some remodeling — larger kitchen and storage facilities and a new entrance.

TWO YOUNG MEN who were hoping to open a new natural foods restaurant on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile this weekend are Dennis Conn and Larry Pebbles of Fairfax.

Their venture, The Carrot at 42 Red Hill Avenue, is about a stone's throw east of the Lion's Den, and since the latter does not go in for an extensive menu with its entertainment programs, The Carrot may share in some of its attendance and popularity.

Dennis, Larry and some others involved plan to remain open from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. every day except Monday, serving lunches and dinners — a la carte and complete plates. Take-home food will also be prepared, with some home delivery service, although what the delivery range will be has not yet been determined.

Live music is planned for weekend afternoons.

EUGENE LACKENBACH of Eugene's Country Club Restaurant in San Rafael is in Anaheim this weekend, where he is attending the annual conference of the Food Service Executives Association, along with members from all over the western states. Eugene is national membership chairman of the association.

IF YOU NOW SEE something poured at your favorite bar from a bottle that seems to contain vodka or gin but is labeled whiskey — there's no need to report it as funny business to the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

What you are witnessing is the new Frost, a dry, white whiskey of the Brown-Froman Distillers Corp. that is going on the market this month. The Bay Area is one of the territories designated for its initial distribution.

It is supposed to have all the uses of regular whiskies — plus figuring in some other recipes like "Diamond Lil," "Tom Edison," "Moby Dick" and "Doubting Thomas."

THERE IS A POSSIBILITY that Don McLaughlin and Peggy De Mars will give up their Hauf Brau House on the east service road of the 101 Highway opposite Terra Linda before the month is over.

It all depends on a transaction they are working out with some people from San Francisco. If the deal goes through, Don and Peggy will take it easy for a while, possibly working for someone else later.

They have been working together as partners since 1948. I first remember them at the Red Fox, where La Petite Auberge is now.

NO OPENING DATE has yet been set for the Howard Johnson Restaurant, which was listed in our recent Dining and Wining Guide as probably being in operation by now.

There is still a little work to be done here, but realty broker Stephen Kramer assures me the contract has been given out for this — so an opening should not be too far along.

It will be operated by the Howard Johnson Co. and it is my recollection that an on sale liquor license has already been obtained for the bar and cocktail lounge.

WHEN TRAVELING by automobile, there are a few simple checks to help you in making a decision where to eat.

Is there a parking lot adjoining the restaurant? If so, it may indicate a well established, well patronized place. But check the number of local rather than out of state automobiles. If the place is good, local people will patronize it.

Automobile club recommendations and gasoline company guides may help, but match their suggestions and high ratings in your own home neighborhood with your personal experience first to judge their value.

Service club signs are another clue. Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and others look for local quality restaurants for their meetings — and leave them if they don't measure up to their standards.

DID I MENTION THIS? Ramona's restaurant is open again for lunches Tuesdays through Fridays. For a time she was serving at mid-day only on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Felony Charges In Draft Protest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The federal government charged 13 Stanford University students with felonies Wednesday—interfering with Selective Service System operations.

All were arrested Tuesday in San Francisco as young persons demonstrated outside draft board offices here and at Oakland, Berkeley, San Mateo and San Jose. Those that demonstrated outside of San Francisco were charged only with misdemeanors.

Federal charges were filed against the 13 after the San Francisco district attorney's office refused to lodge city and county charges.

Cove Development Strongly Opposed

By GEORGE NEVIN

SAN FRANCISCO — After repeated false starts, Paul J. Broman's plans to build 96 apartments on Strawberry Cove finally went before the Bay Conservation and Development Commission yesterday — and promptly ran into a solid wall of opposition.

After more than two hours of public hearing, and after the Peacock Gap developer agreed to a delay in a decision on the controversial project, commissioners voted to continue the hearing yet another time.

The session, originally set for last November, had been delayed repeatedly at Broman's request without explanation, but yesterday's continuance was asked by BCDC members because there was time to hear only a fraction of those opposed to the project.

Scrapping its plan to hold the hearing yesterday and vote on the matter March 18, commissioners agreed to take further testimony at that meeting and vote on April 15.

Broman's plans call for the dwelling units to be built on 6.7 acres of existing fill between Seminary Drive and the Strawberry Cove shoreline. Besides the apartments in six separate buildings, he proposes a swimming pool, public boat ramp and a boardwalk along the bayshore.

A mixed bag of opponents — conservationists, students, residents and a Brownie Scout troop — managed to parade to the rostrum and speak against the apartment plan before the cutoff time.

Supporters included Broman himself and his attorney and architect Leonard B. Fleischman of Belvedere, who owns the land; Clifford Pederson, owner of an adjacent parcel, and a representative of the Marin City Urban Development Association.

Broman, speaking first, presented a slide show which he said refuted one objection of opponents — that his apartments would block views of the shoreline.

In a series of photos taken from inside his automobile, he showed that few vistas of the bay can be had from Seminary Drive.

He also showed pictures of a rotting rowboat and an old auto tire mired in the cove's mud and brush-covered embankments and weed-filled flats.

"I want to improve on this," he said. "Who wants to get out and walk in all that mud and filth and brush?"

"We do!" responded several voices in the darkened room.

Broman urged BCDC members to approve his plan, saying, "Life is full of compromises, but they (opponents) want it their way or no way at all. I used to think they were conservationists. Now I think they're obstructionists."

After a brief description of the project by San Francisco architect Yoshiaki Tajima, opponents took over.

Seven Brownie Scouts from Troop 994 at Strawberry Point School stood before the commission while their leader said they "wanted to keep more buildings out of Strawberry Cove."

Stephen H. Kaufmann, attorney for the Strawberry Recreation District, explained that the district has sued Broman and Fleischman to halt the project because it will block public access to the bay.

William Rochester, co-chairman of the Save Strawberry Cove Committee, agreed with Kaufmann.

"The boardwalk Mr. Broman plans is attractive and we like it," he conceded. "But it's the environmental equivalent of a freeway. There will be excessive pedestrian and bicycle traffic on it. Nobody wants to watch birds from a boardwalk."

A Sierra Club representative, Pieter S. Myers of Belvedere, disputed Broman's claim that the cove is very ordinary. "This unique marshland should be preserved as open space," he said. "If the bay is lost, it will be Strawberry Cove by Strawberry Cove. Show you're interested in the bay and its diminishing shoreline," he urged commissioners.

Other opponents included Marc O'Hara and Mitchell Faber, both students at Edna Maguire School in Mill Valley; John Smale, director of the Point Reyes Bird Observatory in Bolinas; and Mark Collin, of 253 Ricardo Road, Strawberry, who told commissioners he often played in the marsh during his childhood.

Besides Fleischman, Broman and his architect and attorney and Pederson, only Ulysses J. Montgomery, of the Marin City Urban Development Association, spoke in favor of the plan.

Montgomery said the project would create jobs for Marin City workers and would allow residents there to enjoy the cove.

"Strawberry now is an enclave and the recreation district is maintaining a private club," he contended. "Marin City residents aren't allowed to use the tennis courts and swimming pool (operated by the district)." At least the boardwalk would be open to them, he said.

With board chairman Melvin Lane and other commissioners nervously looking at the clock and only a fraction of the speakers completed, Broman agreed to continue the hearing two weeks and waived his right to have a BCDC vote within 90 days of his application.

The lopsided anti-apartment sentiment at the hearing also was mirrored in letters to BCDC, executive director Joseph E. Bodovitz reported. Five or six letters in its favor were received by the staff while 247 letters opposed it.

While not a record, Bodovitz said it was one of the highest expressions of public sentiment in the BDCD's five-and-one-half year history.

Another Broman plan for Strawberry Cove, calling for 90 units on the same site, will be considered by the Marin County Planning Commission May 24.

Panthers' Fuss Boils Once Again

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Black Panthers' divided leadership is exchanging insults—political and personal—over Kathleen Cleaver's failure to return home for tonight's "day of solidarity" rally.

The two factions—one headed by Huey Newton and David Hilliard in Oakland and the other by Eldridge Cleaver in Algiers—accused each other Thursday of being counter-revolutionaries and right-wingers.

Each claimed to be adhering to true Black Panther principles.

Their dispute began last month over the purging of several party members by Newton.

The war of words resumed when the official party paper, which carries Newton's picture on its masthead and is published by the party's national headquarters in Oakland, headlined its Thursday issue: "Free Kathleen Cleaver."

A special supplement inside said Mrs. Cleaver, the party's communications secretary, was "imprisoned" in Algiers against her will by her "male chauvinist" husband, the Panthers' minister of information. Cleaver has lived in exile since fleeing California as a parole violator two years ago.

The article, signed by Elaine Brown, the party's deputy minister of information, attacked Cleaver for "infantile leftism and reactionary chauvinism," accused him of murdering party member Clinton Smith, "the man Kathleen Cleaver loved," and said Mrs. Cleaver was "forced to stay there and accept whatever is meted out to her, for fear of her very life."

During a transoceanic telphone conversation with a San Francisco radio station, Kathleen Cleaver termed the charges "patently absurd" and said she wasn't attending tonight's rally for "very clear-cut political reasons."

"It should be quite clear to many people now that the Black Panther Party has become involved in a division between its right wing and its left wing," she said.

"The right wing headed by David Hilliard and a counter-revolutionary clique has engaged in many activities that slander people, scandalize people, unjustly expel people, distort issues. They have violated all the revolutionary principles."

Eldridge Cleaver read Newton and Hilliard out of the party during the same conversation with rock station KSAN-FM.

"He's finished as far as we're concerned," he said of Newton, who founded the party along with Bobby Seale, currently on trial in Connecticut on charges of murdering a police informer.

"You can just say that since Huey has been out of prison, he has conducted himself in a way that is contemptible and has joined with David Hilliard in systematically destroying the Black Panther Party that we knew about," Cleaver said.

Rebuke To Ignoring Span Plan

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Bay Conservation and Development Commission yesterday delivered a slap on the wrist to the California Toll Bridge Authority for ignoring BCDC's recommendations on the proposed southern crossing of San Francisco Bay.

Commissioners voted the rebuke after learning the toll authority had asked for BCDC's comments on the environmental affect of the controversial bridge and then did not wait for an answer.

Commissioners also warned the authority that it may reconsider a construction permit issued in 1969 for the bridge.

Several commissioners said they felt they should give the toll authority a "slap on the wrist" for asking for comments in December and then voting to proceed with the crossing before BCDC had time to prepare and send them.

Blizzard Belts Montreal, Eastern Areas Paralyzed

By United Press International

A 200-foot freighter was blown into the base of a bridge tower at Newport, R.I.; 300 snowbound travelers took refuge at a high school near Albany, N.Y.; and all traffic was banned from Rochester, N.Y., streets as a late winter storm whipped the Northeast today.

Fort Plain High School outside Albany looked more like a Salvation Army shelter to victims of a massive pileup of stalled cars and impassable drifts on two state highways. One student ran off extra sets of playing cards on a duplicating machine and drivers of two stranded bakery trucks distributed bread and cupcakes.

"They're sleeping in the auditorium and the gym," custodian Louis Lapi said Thursday. "They're playing ping pong, drinking coffee, just waiting."

Twenty-seven inches of snow smothered Sherman, N.Y., in the southwestern part of the state. Twelve counties ordered all roads closed and a 273-mile stretch of the New York State Thruway was shut down by wind-blown snow.

Authorities in Rochester, N.Y., with 300,000 residents, ordered all traffic off the streets from 6 a.m. to midnight Thursday. President Nixon canceled a scheduled visit to the city after consulting mayor Stephen May.

MontrL, no stranger t

Montreal, no stranger to winter, was paralyzed Thursday by 19 inches of snow piled atop shoulder-high drifts from two previous storms. Officials said it was the worst blizzard in memory and it would take days for the city to return to normal.

Overcrowded hotels jammed their lobbies and dining rooms with dormitory-style beds. Schools, banks and stores closed. Montreal International Airport was isolated and shut down. Skiers, snowshoers and snowmobile riders tried to beat the snarl of abandoned cars to get around in the city of 2 million.

About 3,000 employes of the Xerox Corp. facility in Webster, N.Y., were stranded at the plant.

Winds up to 70 miles per hour tore loose a Greek freighter moored at Newport, R.I., and rammed it into a tower of the Newport Bridge. Two Navy tug boats and a Coast Guard patrol boat fought to free the ship.

Winds clocked at 84 m.p.h. whipped through Casco Bay, Maine, and high winds blew an oil barge ashore in Gloucester, Mass.

Schools were closed and traffic halted in six New Jersey counties because of gale-force winds and more than three inches of snow.

Power lines were downed by flying tree limbs in Westchester County north of New York City.

The gale-force winds also battered North Carolina's coastline, closing schools and roads, and flooding some stores at Manteo.

At least 150 families were evacuated from Lumberton as the Lumber River rose to more than nine feet over flood stage late Thursday.

The chilling air began moving into the south, resulting in frost or freeze warnings from South Carolina to northern Florida.

5.4 Million Are Without Jobs But Unemployment Rate Drops

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Joblessness declined for the second straight month in February, dipping to 5.8 per cent of the nation's work force, the Labor Department reported today.

Although the decline was concentrated among teen-agers and persons seeking part-time work, Labor Secretary James D. Hodgson said the figures "continue to show further promise" of overall improvement in the nation's employment picture.

The national jobless rate reached a nine-year high of 6.2 per cent in December. It dropped to 6 per cent in January and Hodgson said the two-month decline "is indeed heartening." He said it showed "the economy is moving in a favorable direction."

A total of 5.4 million persons were out of work in February, the same as in January. However, after adjustment for seasonal variations, unemployment declined 185,000 during the month, with the rate dropping from 6 per cent to 5.8 per cent.

The 5.8 per cent rate is identical to the rate recorded last November.

The jobless rate for adult men was unchanged at 4.2 per cent and for married men at 3.2 per cent during February.

The jobless rate for persons seeking full-time work also remained essentially unchanged at 5.4 per cent.

However, the jobless rate among teenagers dropped sharply, from 17.6 per cent to 16.7 per cent, while the rate for part-time workers fell from 9.2 per cent to 8.7 per cent.

Since the jobless rate hit 6.2 per cent in December, actual total unemployment has increased slightly. But it is normal for this time of year for the jobless rate to rise, resulting in a decline in the key seasonally adjusted reading.

The February jobless figure was still far higher than the figure a year ago when 4.2 per cent of the work force was without jobs. Total unemployment was almost 1.7 million higher last month than a year earlier.

The unemployment rate for whites, which had increased steadily since late 1969, declined from 5.6 per cent in January to 5.3 per cent in February.

Average hourly earnings of rank-and-file workers on private payrolls were $3.34 in February, one cent higher than in January.

Campus Is Seized, But No Trace Of Americans

ANKARA (UPI)—A force of 5,000 Turkish troops and police seized the campus of the Middle East Technical University (METU) today in a four hour battle with students but found no trace of four kidnaped Americans faced with execution if a $400,000 ransom is not paid.

Turkish authorities said at least one student died in the battle in which the students hurled bombs and fired pistols. Fifteen students, a Turkish officer and a soldier were reported wounded. The soldier and two students were reported in critical condition.

Disorders spread to other parts of Turkey and anti-American and antigovernment demonstrations flared in other parts of Ankara. Informed sources said the right-wing, pro-American government of Premier Suleyman Demirel might have to impose martial

A group calling itself the "Turkish Peoples Liberation Army," a leftist extremist group, kidnaped the four American radar technicians Thursday and said they would be executed if a ransom of $400,000 was not paid. They moved up the execution date to 6 a.m. Saturday (11 p.m. EST Friday).

President Nixon, speaking Thursday night at his televised news conference in Washington, was asked if he thought Turkey should negotiate for release of the airmen. He said he would not make that suggestion and that following previous similar cases the United States would leave it up to Turkey whether to negotiate, having in mind their own internal circumstances.

The four Americans were identified as Airman 1C Richard Caraszi of Stamford, Conn.; Airman 1C Larry J. Heavner of Denver, Colo., whose parents live in Maysville, W. Va.; Airman 1C James M. Gholson of Alexandria, Va., and S-Sgt. Jimmie J. Sexton of San Angelo, Tex.

It was the second kidnaping of an American. Last Feb. 16, Airman James R. Finley of Fort Worth, Tex., was kidnaped but released 17 hours later. No ransom was paid.

Turkish students spurred by leftist elements have in recent years staged countless anti-American demonstrations in protest against American policies in Vietnam and because of resentment against the fact 20,000 Americans and dependents are stationed in Turkey, a member of NATO.

At Izmir, the big U.S. base on the Turkish Aegean Sea coast, extraordinary security precautions were clamped on American facilities and personnel. Turkish sources said many American servicemen had started proceedings to send their families home.

The confrontation between the students and police began at 4 a.m. when military and police forces arrived to search for the kidnaped Americans. Five kidnapers were involved and one of them captured by police said he was a student at METU.

Prof. Erdal Inonu, the university rector and son of former President Ismet Inou, a leader of the political opposition, protested the entry of police because he said a search would bring violence. Police ignored his plea and moved in.

Students fired from windows, hurled home made bombs and screamed such epithets as "Independent Turkey" and "Damn American Imperialism!" For two hours they battled until a Turkish colonel won a cease-fire by appealing through a loud speaker. But the fighting broke out again almost immediately for another two hours until authorities won control.

The students poured out of the campus and began a protest march through the heart of Ankara. A chain reaction of violence spread elsewhere in Turkey.

Five armed men in Istanbul robbed a private bank and escaped. Authorities said they possibly were members of the same extremist group accused of robbing other banks.

Car Insurance Firm Plans Hike In Policy Rate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Allstate Insurance Company, which writes about 10 per cent of the automobile policies in California, said Thursday it plans to raise its rates by 8.4 per cent in this state.

Increases will become effective as existing policies expire.

Increases will vary in individual cases because of "geographical location, age and driving record of each policyholder and other factors," said Carl F. Kreig, the firm's Pacific Coast vice president.

The boosts were made reluctantly, he declared, but were necessary because of the increasing costs of California accidents.

State Farm Insurance Company, which is the largest writer of car insurance in this state, said it was not planning an increase. State Farm had boosted its rates by 6.6 per cent in October.

Two Novato youths were arrested last night on suspicion of possession of marijuana after Novato police halted a car for an equipment defect at Diablo Avenue and George Street.

During the check at 8:45 p.m., officers discovered what appeared to be marijuana and beer, they said.

David Michael Dunbar, 18, of 1430 Donna Street, and Matthew Martin Hanzlik, 18, of 841 Eucalyptus Avenue, were booked on suspicion of marijana and scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court. Hanzlik also was charged with possession of alcohol by a minor.

An 18-year-old girl passenger was booked on suspicion of possession of narcotics paraphernalia, described by police as a hash pipe, and was scheduled to appear in court today.

Another passenger, a 20-year-old male, booked on suspicion of possession of alcohol by a minor posted $65 bail was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Monday.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Overpopulation Is Affecting Every Facet Of Our Lives

Overpopulation is affecting our supply of air, food and water. Every facet of life is involved including housing, mental health, economic opportunities, and our relationship with nature. We estimate that in 70 years the population will double in the United States and Russia. But underdeveloped nations are doubling their population every 20 to 30 years.

FOOD SHORTAGES are critical in poorer countries where 79 per cent of the population is malnourished. Reports on synthetic edibles and high yielding grains are encouraging, but misleading. The poor become poorer and most measures that are tried in an attempt to solve the problem usually fail. Even the benefits from the Aswan dam never will be realized because the Egyptian population is likely to double in 24 years.

Everyone in our country is up in arms over polluted air, undrinkable water, and crowded cities and highways. Laws are passed to satisfy the voters but no mention is made of the cause — the needs and actions of too many people. In all probability, overpopulation with overcrowding in our cities is responsible for the rise in drug abuse, high crime rates and civil disorders. We must decentralize our population.

INCREASED BIRTH rates usually are blamed but in the richer and advanced countries more people are living longer. The medical profession deserves some credit (or blame) for the people explosion because they fostered improvements in sanitation and found ways to control malaria, typhoid, cholera, yellow fever and plague. Family size limitations will be acceptable when more parents realize that it is also for the good of their children.

Billions are spent for defense, but time will tell whether this is more important than slowing the avalanche of babies. Politics and economics are important, but ecology is too fundamental to be excluded from important priorities.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journa.)

TOO MUCH HAIR

M. H. writes: Is there a new pill on the market that will control the growth of too much hair on the face and arms?

REPLY

We have new ringworm pills and birth control pills, but I have not seen anything in the medical literature concerning an anti-hirsute tablet. If you do not have a glandular problem, use a depilatory, epilating wax, razor, tweezer, or bleach. Permanent results are obtained via electrolysis.

HOT WATER BAG

Miss C. H. writes: "I'm 18 and suffer from cold feet and legs. My mother says it's because I take a hot water bottle to bed every night. Is she right?

REPLY

It's a good reason but there are others. Many young women have cold hands and feet because of their nervous or glandular makeup. There is no harm in a hot water bottle so long as it does not burn.

SENSE OF SMELL

M. S. writes: In general, do women have a keener sense of smell than do men?

REPLY

Some do and some don't. Much depends upon training, working environment and the condition of the nasal membranes. Dogs, buzzards and other lower animals have a more acute sense of smell than do humans but I doubt if there is any difference between a man and a woman.

Wholesale Prices Register Big Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices registered a 0.9 per cent increase in February, biggest one-month rise since July, 1953, the Labor Department reported today.

Coupled with a 0.7 per cent rise in January, the figures indicated that inflation continues to plague the economy despite a year-long business slump.

3 Die, 800 Hurt In Soccer Riot

SALVADOR, Brazil (UPI)—Three persons were killed and more than 800 injured Thursday when thousands of soccer fans surged onto the field at newly dedicated Fonte Nova stadium during halftime of a soccer game.

Police said the stampede was apparently the result of an explosion in the stadium's lighting system.

President Emilio Garrastazu Medici had just inaugurated the stadium and left 15 minutes before panic broke out. More than 130,000 persons had crowded into the stadium. Its capacity is 110,000.

Household Pills Tied To Defects

LONDON (UPI) — Pregnant women should avoid certain household remedies, including aspirin, a report in the British Medical Journal warned today.

Dr. Matilda Nelson and Prof. John Forfar of Edinburgh University said they studied cases of more than 1,300 mothers and found that significantly more mothers whose children showed congenital abnormalities had taken aspirin, certain indigestion tablets, pep pills and some cough medicines.

The doctors said their warning advice also applied to women in whom conception is likely.

Novato Campus Bond Issue Off

The Marin Junior College District Board of Trustees last night accepted an advisory committee's recommendation and decided not to put a $16.9 million bond issue on the April 20 ballot.

The board had earlier voted to put the bond issue on the ballot to get funds for construction of the district's proposed north campus in Novato but last night voted 5-0 to rescind that action. Trustees Robert E. Oliver and Theodore C. Wellman were absent.

The $16.9 million bond issue was on the November ballot and 64 per cent of the voters responded favorably, but a two-thirds majority was needed.

The U.S. Supreme Court, however, is expected to issue a ruling soon on whether a simple majority is all that should be needed for passage of bond issues based on the "one man, one vote" principal and this pending decision weighed heavily on last night's board action.

On Wednesday night, a citizen's advisory committee recommended delaying a second bond issue attempt until after the U.S. Supreme Court makes its ruling. There is a possibility that the court's decision may be retroactive, meaning the college would already have passed the bond election.

John A. Grasham, district president-superintendent, told the board that a delay in the bond issue attempt did not mean a halt in the progress towards the Novato campus.

He said that state funds will "probably" be put into next year's state budget that would allow the college to begin first stages of the campus' development on schedule.

In addition to the uncertainty of the court's ruling, board members also cited the lack of time for an adequate campaign as another reason for delaying the bond election.

Grasham Wednesday night urged that the college proceed with the election because the bond market was favorable now and because the college would be in a better position to apply for state aid if the $16.9 million had already been approved by the voters.

He said last night, however, that even without passage of the bond issue April 20, there was a "good chance" that money originally approved for College of Marin development at the state level — which was later blue penciled by Gov. Ronald Reagan — will be restored to the budget.

'Park' Riot Deputies Are Exonerated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The government's case against 12 deputies for alleged civil rights violations during the "People's Park" riots two years ago has ended with the men being exonerated of all charges.

The deputies were indicted by a federal grand jury last February following a shotgun death and the reported beating of prisoners during a Berkeley riot over a piece of property owned by the University of California.

Demonstrators and police clashed May 15, 1969 over the lot which the school had fenced in because "street people" had been using it for a park. National guard troops had to be called into the city and occupied the area around campus for 19 days.

Ten separate indictments were issued in February, 1970 by U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell charging the 12 deputies with conspiracy and imposition of summary judgment in violation of federal civil rights laws.

Ten of the 12 men were accused of beating prisoners at the Santa Rita rehabilitation center where 400 demonstrators were taken after their arrests on May 22 in connection with a massive march in downtown Berkeley.

Separate indictments accused eight officers of shotgun shootings and the later beating of prisoners. Two deputies, Leonard Johnson and Lawrence Riche, were charged with wilfully discharging shotguns in the direction of James Rector, 26, who died of wounds and Alan Blanchard, who was permanently blinded.

All the indictments were dismissed except three after a series of jury trials. The remaining charges were dismissed Thursday by U.S. District Judge Stanley A. Weigel after a U.S. attorney said it would "just be a waste of time to go ahead with them."

Petaluma High Plans Meeting

An information program for parents and students who will be attending Petaluma Senior High School next year will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the school gymnasium.

Head Counselor Shirley Mac Ilvain will discuss new classes being offered and graduation requirements. George C. Hatfield, sophomore counselor, will discuss services available and orientation plans for students. Faculty members will also be available for questioning.

Marine Who Shot Buddy Pleads To Manslaughter

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Two Marines agreed to wound each other to avoid going to Vietnam. The pact ended in death for one and a manslaughter conviction for the other.

Pvt. Jerome Quinn, 23, pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in the fatal shooting of fellow Marine Pvt. Eldridge Charles Chappell Jr., 20.

Quinn was indicted after Chappell, whose wife and mother lived in Los Angeles, was killed in the San Luis Rey area near Camp Pendleton Nov. 18.

He and Chappell agreed to wound each other to avoid Vietnam duty, Quinn's attorney told the court. But the .22 caliber bullet Quinn fired into Chappell's right shoulder hit a bone and turned into the victim's heart, the attorney said in quoting the coroner's report.

Quinn fired after he was shot in the lower abdomen by Chappell, the attorney said. Quinn was critically injured and underwent surgery three times.

Superior Court Judge Leland Nielsen ordered Quinn to appear March 25 for a probation hearing and sentencing.

Judge Nielsen let bail stand at $5,000, but Quinn was unable to post it. The maximum penalty for manslaughter is 10 years in prison.

Revenue-Sharers Form New Group

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Democrat Jess Unruh, defeated by Gov. Ronald Reagan in the 1970 election, joined forces with two of Reagan's big supporters Thursday to seek adoption of a federal revenue-sharing plan.

Unruh, Holmes Tuttle and Leonard Firestone announced formation of "Californians for Revenue Sharing" and said the proposal recently advanced by President Nixon was not political or partisan.

Unruh told a news conference that without revenue sharing "we'll just see more and more taxes piled onto the back of the property taxpayer."

$3 Million Injury

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—A father paralyzed in a loading accident has won what is believed to be the largest personal injury suit in Nevada history. Keith Bush of Ely, Nev., was awarded a total of $3.65 million after a court found General Electric Co. liable for the accident.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Improvement Is GAF's Forecast

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I purchased shares of GAF Corp. at 32. Price has dropped considerably; should I hold or take my loss? — J. S.

A. There are several factors responsible for the depressed state of GAF shares. And probably leaning most heavily has been the firm's erratic earnings performance. Between 1965-1969, company sales moved ahead 151 per cent. However, net income slipped 32 per cent from the 1966 record of $1.40 a share to 85 cents in 1969. Moreover, earnings for all of 1970 registered a sharp decline to 34 cents a share from 1969's 85 cents.

Also influencing market action is recent news that a former GAF officer plans to wage a proxy battle to elect new directors. GAF does have many promising things going for it, however. Approximately 29 per cent of company sales is derived from building products. Thus, GAF should enjoy the growth projected for this sector.

Also, GAF has become the "official film" at Disneyland and Disney World replacing Kodak. This, coupled with expanding product lines and the improved economic outlook, augurs well for GAF.

Q. We would like information on a new issue of the New York Stock Exchange called John Hancock that is supposed to yield 7 per cent or 8 per cent. — D. P.

A. John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. is a mutually owned insurance company and does not issue stock for public sale. The company, through subsidiaries, distributes and manages the John Hancock Growth Fund, John Hancock Signature (income) Fund and John Hancock Investment Plans.

The company's newest fund, John Hancock Investors, is a closed-end bond fund. The 5.5 million shares offered earlier this year were fully subscribed on initial sale. Both the Growth and Signature funds were originally issued on February 3, 1968, but neither pays, from dividend income, the generous amount you mention. The bond fund, which would be more likely to provide a high return, has not been operative long enough to establish such facts. The two older funds are traded Over-The-Counter. The bond fund will be listed OTC in a few weeks.

Help Wanted Index Drops Way Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—Business and industry took down a lot of help-wanted posters in January with the end of the Christmas season.

The Conference Board, a business research organization, has reported its index of help-wanted advertising in 52 major newspapers across the country dropped to 147 for January 1957-59 equals 100 from 152 the month before and 203 for January, 1970.

The board said the January index was the lowest since a 146 reading for April, 1965. It also noted that, after major strikes, movements in the index may be distorted for several months.

The board said its index is extremely sensitive to changes in general business conditions and, at the end of a recession, a gain in the index often precedes a decline in the unemployment rate. Conversely, declines in the index have generally been followed by increases in unemployment.

HARRY M. WILLIAMS
Reaches business milestone

Mortician Observes 55th Year

San Rafael mortician Harry M. Williams is observing his 55th year in the mortuary business this month.

A native of Oakland, Williams was first employed part time at the former James Taylor Co., funeral directors, in that city. After completing two years in the U.S. Navy during World War I, he returned to the business full time.

He first came to San Rafael in 1926 as chief deputy coroner and deputy public administrator under the late Ray Keaton. He established the Williams Mortuary on Third Street in 1945.

A member of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission for 24 years, he was recently appointed to serve for another four years. He has also been active in other community affairs, including long terms as a director of the Marin chapter of the American Red Cross and as commander of the Wilkins Post of the American Legion, and he is a member of many other organizations and professional groups. He resigned as chairman of the San Rafael Fire Commission last October after six years in the post.

He and his wife Gertrude will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary in September.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Only $100 Is Deductible For Loss From Natural Disasters

The loss of your property by reason of fire, storm, shipwreck or other casualty, or by theft is deductible only to the extent each loss exceeds $100.

If you have two losses from one casualty, only one $100 deduction is made. Husband and wife, filing jointly are treated as one, so separate losses suffered in the same casualty bring only one reduction.

This does not apply to losses of corporations or business losses of individuals. If the property is part personal and part business, the $100 reduction applies only to the personal part.

Any insurance recovery must be deducted from the amount of the loss before you make the deduction on your tax return. Also, the loss can never exceed the cost or other basis of the property regardless of the fair market value at the time of loss. Usually the loss is the difference between the fair market value of the property before the loss and the fair market value, if any, of the property after the loss.

If your home is destroyed or damaged or if governmental authorities will not permit you to occupy your home because of a casualty or the threat of a casualty and if your insurance pays your temporary living expenses while you are waiting for your home to be repaired, then the insurance that you collect for temporary living expenses in excess of your normal living expenses is not taxed.

The costs of repairing, replacing or cleaning up after the casualty are not allowable deductions. However, if the repairs, replacements or cleaning up do nothing more than restore the property to its condition immediately before the casualty, and do not add to the value, utility or useful life of the property, such costs may be used as a measure of the decrease in value.

To prove a loss, you must show:

1. What happened and when;
2. That the loss was a direct result of the happening;
3. That you owned the property;
4. The cost or other basis of the property;
5. Depreciation allowed or allowable;
6. Value before and after the casualty;
7. The amount of any insurance or other compensation received.

The value before and after the casualty is the real hard one. Photographs and appraisals are helpful.

The costs of photographs, appraisals, accounting fees, etc., in connection with deducting your loss or the preparation of your tax return are deductible in the year paid.

After 1969, all casualty (or theft) gains and losses on business property or capital assets held for more than six months must be combined. If the casualty losses exceed the casualty gains, the net loss is treated as an ordinary loss without regard to whether there may be noncasualty gains under Section 1231. If, however, the casualty gains exceed the casualty losses, the net gain is treated as a Section 1231 gain and must be consolidated with other gains and losses under Section 1231.

If the loss is more than your income for 1970, you can carry the excess back to 1967, 1968 and 1969 and file claims for refund of taxes paid. If the loss is so much that your 1967, 1968 and 1969 income did not absorb it all, then any unused loss could be carried forward for the next five years and applied against the income of those years.

Prices Rally Early

NEW YORK (UPI)—Prices rallied sharply in the first two hours of trading Friday on the New York Stock Exchange. Turnover was about double Thursday's pace.

Among the 1,495 issues on the tape, advances outpaced declines, 981 to 259. The Dow Jones Industrial Average of 30 selected blue chips surged 5.75 to 897.11 —close to the 900 mark.

Most analysts felt the upsurge was an extension of Thursday's healthy advance.

The 10 most active issues were all gainers. Madison Square Garden Corp., heading the list, tacked on 1-4. Telex rose 3-8, Lockheed 5-8, Pan American 3-4, Ryder Systems 1-2, Seaboard World Airlines 7-8, United Aircraft 1-4. Raytheon, GTE Corp. and International Utilites all gained 1 1-2.

IBM rose 4, Corning Glass 3 1-4, Wrigley 3 3-4, and General Electric 2 3-8.

Most major groups were firm. Rails were mixed. Rail talks resumed Friday but a government negotiator said the immediate outlook for settlement "does not look good."

National Health Enterprises with around 82,000 shares traded was an active issue on the American Stock Exchange. Prices were higher in active trading on the Amex as 663 issues advanced and 140 declined among the 1,022 on the tape.

Eight Minor Heroes Among The Legislators

The reason inflation keeps mounting without letup is simple: those who advise others to tighten their belts are unwilling to take up a notch in their own.

It is refreshing, therfore, to find eight members of the California State Legislature with the guts and the gumption to turn down a proferred $5 increase in their already-fat daily expense allowance.

The legislators draw $19,200 per year. But that is merely the salary. They get all sorts of allowances for office help, free gasoline, $200 a month for car lease, etc., on top of that. And they have been receiving $25 per day for expenses while on duty — making the salary pretty much clear velvet.

Not satisfied with that, last month the legislators — those same legislators who talk about "holding down expenses," who rail against inflation — voted to raise this to $30 per day.

BUT EIGHT OF THEM voted "no." And this week two of the eight, Assemblymen Floyd Wakefield, R-Downey, and William Ketchum, R-Bakersfield, appeared before the state Board of Control to urge that it disallow the increase. It didn't, however.

"The governor has asked us to slim, trim and tighten our belts," said Wakefield. "There isn't a legislator up here that's losing any weight."

Bravo! Right on!

WAKEFIELD AND KETCHUM already had refused the increase for themselves. They were the only two assemblymen who did so.

Six state senators also distinguished themselves by rejecting this extra pork. They are Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose; John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek; Howard Way, R-Exeter; John W. Holmdahl, D-Oakland; Albert S. Rodda, D-Sacramento, and Walter W. Stiern, D-Bakersfield.

If you have a little book of minor heroes, inscribe their names in it. They had the integrity to at least refrain from grabbing an extra five-spot per day just because it was offered.

IT IS WITH SORROW that we must report our own legislators, Sen. Peter H. Behr and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, cannot be included in the roll of honor. They accepted the raise without a sign of objection.

Constitutional officers don't get the raise without asking for it, though it goes automatically to all legislators who did not turn it down.

So far, it has been asked for by Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger, Supt. of Public Instruction Wilson C. Riles, and all members of the state Board of Equalization.

If you have another little book of money grabbers, put their names in it. You should include also Assemblyman John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, and Sen. James R. Mills, D-San Diego. They're the ones who asked for the hike in the first place.

AND WHILE YOU'RE at it, you may well list the rest of the legislature including Behr and Bagley, but definitely not including the eight minor heroes who said "no, it wouldn't be right!"

If they are at all consistent, all except those eight now must vote for pay raises for all state employees — most of whom don't get any expense allowance to make their salary velvet.

Of course, you and we will pay the bill.

"So what if we bomb a few buildings? D'you know a better way to protest international violence?"

Hermit Thrush?

We were pleased last week because we thought we had seen a hermit thrush several days in succession in our garden. But after consulting our bird books, we were forced to conclude it was probably a case of mistaken identity.

There are about fifteen species of fox sparrows that are winter visitors in California. To the eyes of an amateur ornithologist, some of them are dead ringers for the hermit thrush.

We can't really be sure until we hear the fellow sing. A fox sparrow can sing well enough, but a hermit thrush is like sacred music on a flute. And we have heard them in Marin some springs.

Rules Committee Upsets Old Precedent, Sends Real Expert

By JACK COOPER

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — About a week ago the California Senate Rules Committee took an almost unnoticed action that could revolutionize the legislating business, if carried to its logical conclusion.

Three senators, exercised about what they understood to be excessive air pollution from the Kaiser Steel mill in Fontana, planned themselves a little junket to look into the matter.

Kaiser said it ran one of the cleanest operations in the country, and the three senators decided they would visit steel plants in various parts of the country to compare what they were doing about air pollution with what Kaiser Fontana was doing.

This is standing operating procedure around here, and it's all a lot of fun. Everybody picks up an air ticket on the contingency fund, and collects per diem, and — surprise — some old friends from the third house will be waiting at the other end of the line, ready to pop for a drink.

It affords some good old times in Pittsburgh and Gary.

THIS TIME, however, the rules committee ruled differently. It decided instead to send one qualified air pollution control engineer to make the comparison inspection.

The implications of this are stupendous, particularly if you take note of the number of former hay and grain merchants who blossom out as experts in some exotic field shortly after they arrive on the Sacramento scene.

Some of this is for real, of course. Some of these boys are pretty smart, and the longer they are here, the more they know about what makes things tick. Some of them become intellectually intrigued with the subject matter they plow through in interminable committee sessions year after year, and really do become expert.

BUT WE DO admit to moments, especially on subjects like narcotics or abortion, when we wonder if maybe the whole legislature oughtn't to be arrested for practicing medicine without a license.

We don't know where this new departure of the rules committee may lead. Possibly to the loss of a few votes from our more eager travelers.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

U.S. Has Power But Not The Will

Although I agree that America should not police the world, I also believe that a politically free people which has drawn another people to a quest for the same freedoms and has the power but not the will to sup this quest, cannot retain a vestige of these same freedoms within its own borders.

The evidence mounts.

Construction Costs Boost Insurance

Some weeks ago, President Nixon proposed some forms of price-wage controls in the construction industry. The only information I gleaned from this approach was that the pay scale of construction workers was much higher than those of other industries. Must confess that I was not too concerned!

This week, I received my homeowners' insurance bill and see that is is more than 50 per cent higher than the previous one. I called my insurance broker for an explanation; appears that the replacement cost of a home has so skyrocketed as a result of construction costs that the insureres merely pass it down the line to the homeowner. Since presently it is my ox which is being gored, I can only say, "right on," when price-wage controls or whatever are slapped on the construction industry.

Not Invocation, Just Statement

Re: So called "invocation" at the Novato City Council meetings.

In the interest of reportorial accuracy, please be informed:

1. I specifically proposed for consideration by the Novato City Council what I considered to be a non-denominational statement. When agnostics and atheists conduct regular services they should be considered a denomination.

2. I proposed no reference to any deity.

3. I proposed no "amen," "halleluiah," "right-on," or any other post-statement remark.

4. I proposed that this statement occur on the agenda immediately following the Pledge of Allegiance, which in part states, " . . . one nation under God indivisable . . ."

To me it seems rather hypocritical to object to this statement after previously uttering the pledge, and I am sure there are those readers who might wish to petition Congress to change that pledge.

$15 Spaying Charge Inadequate

This is in answer to the letter by Fern Starr on Feb. 27 on Pets and Pals vs. veterinarians.

I am not one of those greedy and callous veterinarians in Marin you refer to but I practice in San Francisco and I know what it costs to operate a veterinary hospital of good quality.

Aside from the fact that your quoted prices are misrepresented as is your accusation misdirected, no veterinary hospital can perform a proper spay for $15 unless it is done wholesale and at the expense of proper procedure.

Now that we are down to something for nothing what stops you from donating or better yet go to school, get a degree, build a hospital and do it yourself?

There is one other way of course, convince the rest of the country to reduce their prices and so we will be able to do the same and survive.

When you leave your usual Marin veterinarian don't slam the door too hard — you will probably find he was worth his fee.

'Meanest Officials' Award For Marin

I wish there was an award to the meanest public officials in the United States. For what has been done to Hank, the cat, I'd nominate Marin County! Please note: I left out "marvelous" — you don't deserve that word. (Chamber of commerce take note too!)

We took Hank in 1959 and saw him often through the years. Knowing him was a delightful experience. I never saw him squeeze the fruit, sleep in the meat section, smoke in Harry's Mart or throw papers on the floor. I doubt if he ever stole candy. I never saw him drunk or high on drugs, he was never rude nor did he ever short-change me . . . He was a credit to his owners (who are equally as nice) and an asset to the store.

So Marin has laws regarding animals in food stores. I'm all for this; however, laws have a way of being bent . . . The law bends over backwards to let some thief or mugger or drunk driver go free (to do their thing again). But boy, did you go by the letter of the law regarding Hank! . . .

The county dickers, bargains, delays and postpones on issues that really count. I wonder why you acted so rapidly on Hank?

. . . We lived in Marin for 10 years and still own property there. We pay taxes to support your schools and all the other things there. So I feel I can easily say your enforcement of this law is mean and unjust as well as downright heartless.

I understand many people there feel just as I do. Isn't it too bad that the county refused to listen? . . .

As to the individuals who were directly responsible for banishing Hank: the next time you eat in a public place please remember this — there's a possibility that those who are feeding you didn't wash their hands after their last trip to the bathroom. It would be a fitting reward to you!

Shame on you Marin! You aren't marevlous any more.

Russian Activities In Cuba Give Rise To Dark Suspicions

WASHINGTON — The United States is getting no assurance from the Soviet Union that it is not building a nuclear submarine base in Cuba.

President Nixon is trying to get such an assurance through quiet diplomacy, but nothing reassuring has been forthcoming, only bland words. Moscow is being very equivocal.

The President quietly said so in two recent statements. In his "State of the World" message to Congress, after explaining that the Russians took steps in 1970 in the Caribbean "to again operate offensive weapons systems from this hemisphere", and citing that this would be contrary to the Kennedy-Khrushchev agreement of 1962, Nixon said:

"Only after a period of discussion did we reaffirm our understanding and amplify it to make clear that the agreement included activities related to sea-base systems."

That's nice, but there is no evidence that the Russians accept our understanding of what the 1962 missile crisis agreement covers.

In his radio report the same day the President explicitly confirmed that there was no meeting of the minds with Moscow by warning that the United States "must discourage the temptation (on the part of the Soviets) to raise new challenges in sensitive areas such as the Caribbean."

THE IMPLICATIONS of the stepped-up Russian activity in Cuba are subject to varying interpretations, but it would be unwise to dismiss the flow of intelligence which reaches the 600,000 Cuban exiles in the United States who have special sources of information in their homeland. Such informants helped to alert us to the Soviet actions in sneaking nuclear missiles into Cuba in 1962.

The latest report of the Cuban Watch Committee, recently released by three distinguished Cubans in the United States, contains some very forbidding information on the overall Russian military program in Cuba. It includes:

1 — A Russian plan to develop the island of Cuba into a major naval operating base with steps already being rushed to modernize a dozen harbors.

2 — With Cuban approval, the Nuclear Institute in Managua is reportedly staffed with some 760 Russian technicians.

3 — Russian army strength in Cuba is estimated to be between 20,000 and 22,000 soldiers. They conduct regular maneuvers in secluded mountain areas.

4 — An important Russian military complex is being developed in the mountains at La Cubilla. No Cuban is allowed to enter this area; the construction has been carried out entirely by Russian troops.

Wherever possible the new Soviet military installations are going underground to avoid U.S. aerial surveillance which in 1962 foiled the effort to smuggle nuclear missiles into Cuba.

ON THE BASIS of this intelligence the Cuban Watch Committee reaches these two conclusions:

That Russian activities in Cuba suggest a sense of urgency which prompts them to accept increasing tensions with the United States in order to achieve their goals.

That there are signs that the Russians, emboldened by their greatly increased strategic nuclear capabilities since 1962, including their newly acquired but fast-growing Polaris-type submarine fleet, may be preparing for a new test of will with the United States involving another experiment in nuclear powered politics.

These judgments come at a time when talks between Washington and Moscow to preclude a Russian nuclear submarine base in Cuba are so far unavailing.

The Soviet news agency Tass has blandly said that the Russians are not building "their own" military base in Cuba — which is no assurance at all.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Backfires In Outlands Put Heat On Congress

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

DES MOINES — The tactics of Mr. Nixon's campaign to put over his "new American revolution" took clear shape as he stood beneath portraits of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and himself to address the Iowa Legislature.

His technique is to build a series of grass fires in the provinces, set to burn back toward Washington and put such heat on federally oriented lawmakers that they will relent and pass his major programs.

Such a campaign might be predictable, except that it is undertaken by a man whose house sits alongside the zero milestone on Washington's ellipse, a man who in symbol and fact is the ultimate wielder of federal power.

THE PRESIDENT surprised very few when he opened his venture into the heartland by announcing that he was adding another $100 million to the billion he already had proposed in special revenue sharing for rural community development.

That is the traditional federal executive talking, adding a sweetener when approval of his original suggestion is uncertain.

But then he went on:

"The people who know a place best are the people who live there. To put it bluntly, I believe that legislators in Iowa know better than bureaucrats in Washington, D.C., know what is best for Iowa . . .

"I reject completely the contention that you cannot trust state and local governments. The patronizing notion that a bureaucratic elite in Washington knows best what is best for people everywhere is completely alien to the American experience."

THIS, FROM THE MAN who snapped his fingers and ordered up at least three giant Air Force jets, a plane load of reporters and photographers and a battalion of security and advance agents to transport, arrange, record and guard his visit to the Middle West, where half his cabinet, one state legislature and four governors (who had just come back from the governors conference in Washington three days before) gathered to hear him and give him their favorable opinions of what he was doing.

Who else could execute that, and plan to do it again today in Rochester, N.Y., and later in selected other areas, except the President of the United States, the very figurehead of the "bureaucratic elite in Washington"?

That is a phrase we are used to hearing from southern governors bitching about desegregation guidelines, from Barry Goldwater when he is running for President, from the western rancher who wants to graze his sheep on still more national forest land.

It is what you always hear from the outs when they want to get in. What makes it unlikely from a President of the United States is that he is in, and the way he normally gets things done is to use the very Washington bureaucrats Mr. Nixon is excoriating.

STILL IT IS NOT out of character for Mr. Nixon himself. He is telling the people what they want to hear. And his operatives are making sure that his message reaches over the heads of journalistic middlemen so the people hear it the way he wants them to. Here in Iowa, his speech to the legislature was carried later, in full and in prime time, by five state television stations.

The committee chairmen in Congress may have serious reservations about his revenue sharing plan, based on their experience. Mr. Nixon did not say so, but it was those veteran defenders of states' rights whom he fingered when he said some people scoff and sneer at state and local governments.

The people who get his message direct are not likely to bother about the chairmen's subtle reservations or understand his subtle chaffs at the chairmen.

But the better informed among them do understand that most states would get back from Washington under the revenue sharing plan more than they pay in.

If the decision on revenue sharing were to be made by a majority vote among the 50 governors, the proposal would be home free. But it is up to the Congress, which responds not only to the influence and experience of its own chairmen but also to the sometimes oversimplified opinions of the voters back home.

That is why Mr. Nixon is flying off to Des Moines and Rochester and onward from there. He is embarked on a campaign that seems contradictory when he belittles his own functionaries, but which in truth will be a historic chapter in the long contest between the executive and legislative branches of our government.

New Traffic Lights Work Like Machine — Drivers, Too

Like Pavlov's dogs, Mill Valley motorists seem to be adjusting to the new traffic signals at Camino Alto and East Blithedale Avenue.

City Engineer Stanley M. Bala, who unwillingly plays the role of the Russian scientist in the drama at the intersection, said that drivers are moving through the lights at a much faster clip than two weeks ago when the lights were turned on.

"It's a funny feeling when I stand at that corner and turn the screw on the timing device," Bala said. "I'm adjusting a machine that's telling people what to do and, just like machines, they're doing it."

Bala's distaste when he talks of manipulating that many human beings with a twist of his wrist makes it evident that he isn't on a power trip.

THE LIGHTS are of the most advanced design, even more sophisticated than those at the Civic Center and San Anselmo's Hub intersection, and feature what Bala calls "traffic lane control." This means loops of sensitized wire buried in the pavement detect the presence of a car and feed the information into a roadside computer.

When the signals were turned on, each direction was allowed 40 seconds of green. That's been reduced to 12 seconds in some directions and 24 in others. Bala hopes to cut it further.

"Once people get used to moving through the intersection I can cut it to eight seconds and still empty each lane," he said.

TO COMPLAINTS about too many unsightly lights, Bala answers that each of the 17 signals is necessary. "Overhead lights move the traffic 20 per cent faster," he explained, "because all the drivers are told at once that the light is green."

Surprisingly, no complaint has been received about traffic in the intersection, which backs Bala's contention that it's flowing faster and more safely than ever.

East Blithedale Avenue carries about 26,000 cars a day, Bala estimated, about a quarter of the load of Highway 101.

No recent traffic count has been conducted at the corner, though, and Bala hopes to rent traffic detectors from the county public works department to run a study. He thinks it will prove more cars move through the intersection now than when it was controlled by stop signs.

MOTORISTS SHOULD resist judging the corner so soon, though. Bala and assistants are still in the process of determining how to adjust the lights to get the best flow.

He's already decided to stop giving pedestrians preferential treatment at the expense of motorists.

"When we first set up the intersection," he said, "we gave pedestrians the walk signal on every light." But this meant that each cycle was delayed 11 seconds to allow pedestrians to clear the intersection.

Under the new adjustment, the light will turn green instantly and pedestrians had better watch out.

A Census View Of Six Communities

Population and housing characteristics for Marin County and the six Marin and Southern Sonoma Cities with more than 10,000 residents have been released by the Bureau of the Census.

Contained in two reports, data gathered during the 1970 census shows 197,542 Caucasians in Marin as compared to 5,042 Negroes and 3,454 of other races.

Both reports deal primarily with statistical information on the population makeup and living conditions of blacks and whites.

The county's official population in 1970 is listed as 206,038, up 40.3 per cent from the 1960 figure of 143,820.

While the county's growth rate exceeded 40 per cent, the state's is listed at 27 per cent — 19,953,134 in 1970 as compared with 15,717,204 in 1960.

The reports show 15,497 children under five years of age in 1970; 50,796 persons from five to 17; 124,671 persons from 18 to 64, and 15,187 over 64.

Marital information shows 98,562 persons married, 8,825 divorced and 38,932 single.

The 1970 population is listed as 92.4 per cent urban and 7.6 per cent rural.

The census counted 71,241 housing units in the county — 41,154 occupied by owners, 26,452 by tenants and 3,635 vacant. Vacancies included seasonal use. The reports also show an almost 2 per cent decrease in the number of owner occupied homes — 59.4 per cent in 1960 as compared with 57.8 per cent in 1970.

The median value of owner-occupied houses in Marin was $33,900 as compared with $20,200 in 1960.

A housing composite of the city listed 4,168 housing units with 2,156 occupied by owners and 1,746 by renters. The median value of owner-occupied homes was $41,900 and the median rent for renters was $184. The census counted 185 homes and apartments vacant and listed 32 units as lacking some or all plumbing facilities. Ten units were occupied by eight or more persons and 1,391 by two persons.

Boy Forgives Boar For Gore

Freddie Vanderhoff, 16, suffered a deep gash in his back when the animal gored him as the youth tried to drive it out of a pen.

"Oh, no, he's too good an animal to destroy," the youth said from his hospital bed Thursday when asked if the boar would be sent to the slaughterhouse for its actions.

Youth Booked On Burglary

Tony Machado, 14, of 211 Hill Boulevard, Petaluma, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of burglary.

A neighbor, William Haynes of 213 Hill Boulevard, called police yesterday at 1:10 p.m. and said he had caught the youth inside his home and said he had stolen a portable radio and cigarettes.

Machado, who had also been arrested for burglary on Feb. 19, was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall.

Reagan's Rating Hurt By Cutback

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan's popularity with California voters is down considerably since last year, the California Poll reported today.

Pollster Mervin D. Field reported that a February sample of Californians showed 32 per cent crediting Reagan with doing a good job and 28 per cent a poor job. The figures for February, 1969, were 42-15 and for February, 1970, they were 39-19.

While the largest single complaint was high taxes, this has always been the leading item of disapproval.

Field reported new criticisms concerning Reagan's cutbacks on Medi-Cal, welfare and education funds.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Who's Doing Disaster Planning? Depends Which Story You Read

Last week I quoted from several stories in the I-J which demonstrated plainly that the county board of supervisors just didn't know where it was at, and like Castro of Cuba were letting the bureaucrats run the county government; this even though they were receiving $12,000 a year each or $60,000 for the five of them. Well, there was one other bit that properly belonged with that group of stories, but I thought perhaps space wouldn't allow.

One of the items had to do with disaster planning: "County Administrator Alan Bruce said his office is arranging a meeting between the Marin County counsel's office and all the cities' attorneys, to work out agreements on jurisdictional responsibility for disaster planning."

Here is what should have been printed side by side last week: An I-J Wednesday story said that Board Chairman Bud Baar stated that he and Asst. Administrator Tom Campanella were working on a plan of defense or disaster procedure, but that he wasn't prepared to give the details just then.

NOW, CONSIDER THAT if you will. Here we have the administrator going full steam ahead, while one of his immediate assistants was working with the chairman of the board on the same time. How's that for hoo-mali-mali? The chairman did publish a lengthy letter which he sent to each of the city governments. It was a good plan and conformed to the state disaster blue print. However, this wonders me a little to say the least. Was the assistant administrator under-cutting his high "commander"? Was the guy who is "going to run this county and don't you ever forget it" in so much of a hurry to get into print that he failed to do his usual rigid checking of subordinates in every minute detail of their activity?

This seems to be the story: An I-J reporter (Jeff Greer, I believe) got in touch with the chairman and told him that Marin didn't have a disaster plan. Baar was startled and contacted Campanella without going through channels. Even though he has the reputation of being the one supervisor who does his home work, more better he polish up his attention to things, then he wouldn't have to run to the firm of Bruce, Barrows and Campanella but be his own man.

GOING BACK to the quote from a national weekly: "Castro has spent altogether too much time as a national ombudsman forever touring the country and leaving the government to the bureaucrats." A similar atmosphere came into view Wednesday. I heard it first on Radio KTIM noon news, then the I-J carried the yarn. It concerns Supervisor Peter Arrigoni.

"Pitch For Wild Animal Haven . . . Foxes, racoons, skunks and other wild animals that are being exterminated in Golden Gate Park as beast of prey may soon find a new haven in Marin." Arrigoni, as I understood the broadcast, had made this offer at a luncheon our board attended in San Francisco.

The I-J story said that Arrigoni, at Tuesday's meeting of the board of supervisors suggested that the beasties be transported and released in the Mount Tamalpais state game refuge and that the regional manager of the state Fish and Game Department had agreed to transport the animals from San Francisco.

The board decided that they would clear it with the Humane Society and park officials.

Supervisor, did it ever occur to you that you were not elected to spend your time in this manner, nor are you paid $12,000 a year for this? Better that you had known that the deputy sheriffs couldn't be assigned in the manner you had promised the folks in the unincorporated areas . . .

HAVE YOU NEVER heard of the incidence of rabies and the danger of domestic animals being bitten and in turn the danger to humans? That should be part of your home work, so that you could give proper budget consideration to requests of the departments involved, instead of adding to the population of these carriers.

$98 Burglary

A camera, pen and pencil set, electric drill and a case of soft drinks, valued at a total of $98, were taken in a burglary of the Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road, Monday or Tuesday, Marin County Sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

Your Independent-Journal Marin Magazine tomorrow continues its popular "Profile of a Marinite" series with a story on Rev. Fred C. Small. As pastor of the Church of God, not only is he Marin City's best known churchman, but he is also widely known throughout the county as a consistent civic worker for a better Marin. Reporter George Nevin tells you about Reverend Small and of his dramatic inspiration to enter the clergy.

In the past young fans of rock have tuned to San Francisco radio stations to listen to their favorite music. But all that is changing. More and more are dialing Marin's own station, KTIM, in the evenings. That is because of a new rock music show and the young disc jockey, Clint Weyrauch, who presides over it so diligently. Marin Magazine editor Don Keown has written a feature on this versatile young man who has brought rock music to KTIM.

$5 Million Hike In Congressional Record's Costs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cost of printing what congressmen say for the record as well as what witnesses tell them at committee hearings has gone up by at least $5 million in a year's time, according to figures reported today by the General Accounting Office.

The GAO audit of U.S. government printing office financial records for the 1970 fiscal year that ended June 30 showed the cost of printing the Congressional Record went up to $6.4 million from $4.8 million in 1969.

Driver's Condition Is Satisfactory

A San Francisco man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with facial cuts and head injuries received when his car went off the road in Mill Valley and struck a tree.

The California Highway Patrol, which had no details of the accident, said Robert Grant was injured about 2:10 a.m. yesterday as he was southbound on Morningsun Avenue.

TWO FOREIGN exchange students like Marin County because it's warm — both the people and the weather. Uschi Sonnenberg, 18, left, and Petra Schulze, 17, are attending Tamalpais High School under different programs but agree their year here has been an eye opening experience. "It's astonishing how they smile and say "hi" to you when you walk down the street," Petra said. (I-J photo)

German Students Find Marin Smiles

By GEORGE NEVIN

Marin County, as seen through the eyes of two German exchange students, is green, open, beautiful — and warm.

"I love the sun here. I love the climate," said Petra Schulze, 17, as she sat on the lawn in front of Tamalpais High School, where she is a student this year.

The sun hung in a bright blue sky overhead and warmed her tanned face and brown hair as she talked.

"The people here are warm, too. It's astonishing how they smile and say 'Hi' to you when you walk down the street. A year here isn't enough."

Her friend Ursela P. Sonnenberg, 18, agreed. Both said their fellow countrymen don't smile at strangers on the street, even young ladies, very much.

Ursela, who likes to be called by her nickname, Uschi, and Petra are two of 11 foreign students at Tamalpais High School this year. They will be honored by the school's Parent-Teacher Association at the Sixth Annual International Buffet and Bash, to be held Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Ruby Scott Auditorium of the school.

USCHI AND PETRA both have their eyes firmly on careers. "It's crazy to be a housewife," Petra said. "If a woman gets divorced she has to be able to support herself."

Petra hopes to study medicine in the university in Germany with an eye toward organic practice. Uschi would like to become a painter and sculptor, but may have to fall back on teaching if she can't succeed as an artist.

As might be expected, the co-eds have found America an eye-opening experience. "I look at people more deeply since I've been here," said Petra. "I', friendlier and more open to them and they seem more open to me. I'd like to come back here for another year."

Both said they have become more aware of social issues such as destruction of the environment and pollution while in Marin. "There's pollution in Germany, too," Uschi said.

Neither the dark-haired, brown-eyed Petra nor Uschi, with her red hair and green eyes which appeared yellow in the bright sunlight, fit the stereotype of the blond-tressed, pink-cheeked German girl. In fact, Uschi, whose self-proclaimed streak of independence often shows through, doesn't believe there is such a thing as a typical German.

"BOTH OF us are German," she said, "but we're so different. I don't like to be thought of as a type."

As though to prove her point, Uschi, unlike Petra, said a year of study in America is enough for her. "Don't get me wrong — I like it here. I love Tam," she said.

"But I prefer living in Germany. I'm not nationalistic about it, but Europe has many things America doesn't. A kind of attitude but it's hard to explain."

Uschi is impressed by the great differences between her homeland and the United States. For example, she said, a car is necessary in Marin but public transportation is excellent in Minden, her home town.

"Mill Valley just had its 75th birthday and people were so excited about it," she said with a laugh. "My town is 1,500 years old."

SHE IS amused by the number of antique shops in Marin, "one on every corner, where any 50-year-old bottle is an antique." But even her watch, she said, is that old.

The girls agree on one subject, though — American high school doesn't compare academically with German schools.

High school in Germany lasts 9 years, and only serious students attend. At the end of that time all pupils must take an arbitur, seven days of written tests and three days of oral exams. Those who pass may go to the university. The failures must repeat the last year of high school.

Academically, their year at Tamalpais High School is wasted. "We don't get any credit for our work here," said Petra.

SHE AND Uschi find the youth culture in Marin fascinating and appreciate the freedom Tamalpais students enjoy. Bits of dialogue such as "far out" and "groovy" pepper their conversation.

The girls admire the youth revolution, which they see reflected in relaxed hair and dress codes at Tamalpais and in the freedom of students to shoulder backpacks and set off on their own.

These changes are coming to Germany and the rest of the world, Uschi believes, "but this doesn't mean Germany is becoming Americanized. This is just a worldwide trend."

In all, Uschi and Petra have enjoyed their stay in America. "I'll be sad to leave," said Petra. "I never saw a year go by so fast. I'm just starting to make some good friends and now we've only got four months to enjoy them."

Uschi, in Marin under the American Field Service program, is staying with the Lloyd C. Madison family of Tamalpais Valley. Petra, whose host is the Irving L. Fisk family of Mill Valley, is in the Youth for Understanding (YFU) program.

THE OTHER six students in exchange programs, their native countries, host families and programs are:

Pride In Puppet Show Calmed Rebellious School Children

CINCINNATI (UPI)—A puppet show usually is presented to entertain children, but in a special program in use by the public school system here the puppet performance is intended to aid in rehabilitation of rebellious, so-called "problem" children.

The program is the brain child of Lee Marcussen, 24-year-old manager of a newspaper circulation promotion office and a former puppeteer.

Marcussen has worked with children in various volunteer jobs around the city, including the Juvenile Court, but had never used his puppets or knowledge of the puppet show art.

"I realized one evening while looking over some of the equipment that perhaps the schools could use the puppets and related paraphernalia," he said. "They weren't doing anyone any good in my basement."

Marcussen contacted the offices of the public schools and relayed his ideas to personnel in the Special Education section who jumped at the chance to use the puppets and his time and skills.

The children he was given to work with were the "problem kids," 11 and 12 year olds who were sent to the city's Sixth District because teachers in other schools were unable to control them.

Marcussen held two one-hour sessions each week at the school. He used a tape he had produced and painstakingly taught the boys how to use the puppets and correspond their movements to the voices on the tape.

When the boys performed for the first time in front of an audience —their teachers and fellow students —the show proved to be an unqualified success.

Mrs. Eunice Dewley, coordinator of the Behavior Learning Problem Program at the school, was particularly impressed.

"That show gave the children a feeling of pride and accomplishment," she said, "something they were sorely lacking.

"This feeling of accomplishment is a contributing factor to giving them a feeling of belonging. Self esteem is very important with disturbed children. They need to believe in themselves."

Children Given Chance

She pointed out that these children lacked the experience of success, of having accomplished anything or shown an ability.

"This was a chance for them to demonstrate a skill or ability they could take real pride in," she said.

She singled out one little boy who had come to the school with a deep-seated withdrawal problem.

"He became so interested in the program after he was acclimated to the puppets that he went home and made his own puppets," she said. "It was the first time he had shown a real interest in anything."

Marcussen plans to continue the program with a new group of children and hopes to expand it if he can find some help.

"This just isn't a one-man operation any more," he said.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Marin Faces On Stage And In League Show Audience

By MOLLY MARIN

Twenty-two hundred women at a fashion show? That's what the Junior League drew yesterday to its all-out gala at the Fairmont's grand ballroom in San Francisco, which played to 1,200 at noon and another 1,000 for the evening performance.

The drawing cards are a local unveiling of the latest name-designer fashions, a celebrity or two and the fact that the annual league fund-raiser is a "social must" to many.

As always, Marin faces were legion both in the audience and in the fashion show itself. Chairman of the show was Mrs. Robert Clark Taylor of Ross, and presenting the clothes on the room-length ramp were 11 Marin women of the 26 Junior Leaguers who modeled. Mrs. Kirk Frederick of San Rafael opened the show in a spectacular Sant Angelo Indian print bodysuit, and following close behind in the "splices of color" sequence of bold primary colors were Mill Valleyans Mrs. James L. Potts in a hooded suede coat and magenta knit suit, and Mrs. Lee M. Gammill Jr. wearing a multi-colored knit jumpsuit.

In the blue denim sequence Mrs. Joseph E. Sheeks of Belvedere led off in a denim-look knit jumpsuit and workman's jacket — high-style, of course — and was followed by Mrs. Blaine S. Boyden of Greenbrae in a blue saddle-stitched belted suit topped by a red hat and Mrs. McKenzie Moss II of Ross in a red and blue denim shorts outfit.

Mrs. William J. Morris of Kentfield stirred the approving crowd when she appeared in Jean Louis' sculptured navy wool dress with white ruffle trim at the cuffs and soft white blouse. A white hat covered her dark hair. In the yellow sequence Mrs. F. John Dreyfous of Belvedere, modeling the league show for the first time, appeared in yellow shorts topped with a lemon canvas jacket.

Mrs. Paul Daly and her daughter, Mrs. Jeff Skov, were seated with Mmes. Edward Griffith Jr., John Stephenson, Charles Raven, A. H. Larkins, James Eggers, William Vorhees and Miss Georgia Krause.

Model's husbands busy with the show were Kirk Frederick of San Rafael, who modeled designer suits while he escorted models along the ramp, and John Busterud who helped each model off the ramp stairs at the end of the ballroom.

Other show participants were Mrs. Albert W. Seidel of Ross

Mistake InWomen's Basketball

CHICAGO (UPI) — Seventy-five years ago Clara Baer put forth a set of rules for women's basketball, and promptly got the girls off to a start on the wrong foot.

Clara, who introduced the game at Newcomb College in New Orleans, wrote her rules using a diagram of a court supplied by the man who invented the game in 1891, James Naismith.

According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica she mistook dotted lines, indicating the areas wherein the players might best execute team play, to be restraining lines. As a result, forwards, centers and guards had to play within specified areas.

That probably eliminated a lot of tiring 94-foot dashes from one end of the court to the other, but even today's women's teams have three forwards who stay in the forecourt and do all the scoring, while three guards cover the backcourt.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Why Is It So Hard For Adults To Apologize To Their Children?

DEAR HELEN:

Parents are past masters at saying the wrong thing, then trying to bluster it out, as if they weren't in the wrong. Why is it so hard for adults to apologize to their children?

Take me, for example. I'm sitting here thinking what a stupid fool I made of myself. I lost my temper and got the worst of it from my husband, so I took it out on our son, calling his friends (among other things) a "bunch of long-haired freaks." They aren't really, but on that particular day, our son hadn't done his homework, his room was in a worse than usual mess — and I needed a whipping boy. It happens more often than I'd like to admit.

Now there's a sort of gulf between us, made worse by me because I've kept on "picking," in an attempt to justify myself, probably. Do others have this problem too? — FEELING GUILTY

DEAR F. G.:

Apologies come hard to most of us, and especially when they involve our children.

You probably have a submerged feeling that to admit you're wrong weakens authority. It also hurts your pride: The perfect parent doesn't make mistakes — so you justify yourself by finding faults that prove your point.

If you can't say "I'm sorry . . . " how about writing it? A letter to your son (at this particular moment) might bridge a small gulf that could, if "picked at" enough, widen into a chasm. — H.

P.S. You might enclose with your letter this "confession" written by a very human Catholic priest, and published recently in the Sacramento BEE.

DEAR LORD:

I can make an ass of myself in a thousand ways.
But I really excel with my mouth.
The other morning, I got out of my car and was approached
By a couple of girls whose casual dress
Immediately catalogued them, in the way
We snobbish humans do,
As hippies.
They asked me if I had 20 cents
And I replied that, yes, I had 20 cents
But I wasn't giving it to them!
Immediately I was ashamed,
Ashamed for the rudeness, the rottenness
Of that wisecracking answer.
And I thought: What a jerk.
Who appointed you the almighty judge
And jury, the lord high executioner?
There are ways of saying "No"
Without sounding like a Pharisee or
The self-appointed defender of public morals.
What kind of a man are you, anyway,
If a simple thing like that
Stampedes you into being rude?
I blundered in that because I was afraid,
Because somebody was threatening my
Tight little innermost feeling of security.
And I recognized in those poor kids
A kick in the seat of my conscience,
And I didn't like it.
So I justified the answer as we always do,
With a wrap-around of the old phylacteries
And said in effect, do not touch me
For I am pure.
What an ass!
If this had been the only time
I had blundered into unkindness
It wouldn't have bothered me so much.
But it is more or less the story of my life.
And I have never, that I can remember,
Been justified in what they call righteous anger or indignation.
Dear Christ, I am making a present of my mouth to YOU:
Let it be gentle, compassionate,
Let it be kind.
Above all, let it be kind.
Let it be kind or shut it up!
If this is my only contribution to peace in the world,
It will be more than enough.

St. Paul's Catholic Church,
Knights Landing.

as one of the Muppets in the "Sesame Street" number, and little Eric Charles, who wore a blue pique coverall as the children modeled and while his mother, Mrs. Peter Charles of Kentfield, told friends that he really didn't think once down the ramp was enough and wanted to go back and forth three or four times.

The luncheon event began with the entrance of Mrs. Ronald Reagan in a simple, elegant yellow frock, and who was led to her table to the strains of "California Her I Come." And it ended with the traditional sparkling "jewel lady" wearing a million dollars worth of gems in bracelets, necklace and earrings — this year Mrs. Frank deMilt Hill of San Francisco, a league sustaining member.

The luncheon show and the dinner-dance repeat last night raised much of the funds that will make the league community projects go. In Marin it's the Audubon Canyon Ranch near Bolinas.

Waste Problems

NEW YORK (UPI)—Environmental problems for the nation's supermarkets are reaching the point where they represent significant dollar loss, reports "Chain Store Age." The food publication said the chains' problems fall in three main categories: Problems having to do with the disposal of store wastes, those associated with products the store sells, and, most serious, problems having to do with packaging wastes, such as cans and non-returnable bottles.

Nicknames Are A Solid Part Of Our Life Style

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"Hey, Slow-Walker, over here!"

We watched as the tall young man slowly approached our lunch table.

"Hi, Teach."

"Move over, Con-Man. I know he's talkin' that talk. Don't pay any attention to him, Satellite, you know he's just trying to con you out of your lunch today."

"Hey, did you hear about . . . ?" began the Lip.

When one takes note of the barrage of often humorous and clever nicknames that we have created and use to designate one another, it is hard to believe that most parents put a good deal of time and thought into the selection of a name for their newborn child. A name that, ironically, may be used only sparingly during the child's lifetime.

NICKNAMES ARE a solid part of our life-style, and it is interesting to surmise where nicknames come from and why.

We Americans seem to have a habit of perverting things — especially names. We shorten Michael to Mike and Tyrone to Ty to keep up with our fast pace of living. Or perhaps it is a matter of esthetics. We use much slang and nicknames simply because we like the way they sound.

Just as given names are selected for a variety of reasons — family, historical and so forth—nicknames are also the outgrowth of a variety of characteristics.

Some nicknames illuminate a physical characteristic of a person — like Hands, the guy with exceptionally large hands or Fat Pete or Slim Jones. Buzzard, Mouse and Squirrel are look-alike names. Blue was a guy who was very dark in skin coloring — so black he was blue.

Initials are another popular source of nicknames. They may be the person's real initials, but more than likely they are initials that stand for other things such as C.W. for Continuous Wave, meaning that person is a nonstop talker, or A.L. for Always Late.

Nicknames may even be derived from their likeness to a commercial product — like the musician with the surname Campbell, who answers to the name Soup.

CADILLAC, SKINS (wearer of suede and leather goods) and Black Shirt-and-Shades (a wearer of sunglasses) are names designating a person's preference in cars, clothing and glasses.

Some nicknames are the result of a person's peculiar ways. For example, the Teach is always willing and ready to give additional (pedantic) information about a nothing subject.

She Learned Drug Addict Role By Observing The Whole Scene

By JOYCE CERWIN

Playing the role of a drug addict in Pat Boone's new film "The Cross and the Switchblade" has catapulted Jackie Giroux deep into the whole drug scene — as a crusader against it.

Miss Giroux stopped over in San Rafael's Holiday Inn yesterday as part of a nine-day barnstorming tour to promote the film, which opens March 17 at the Tamalpais Theater in San Anselmo. She told the Independent-Journal of her experiences with the drug addicts she met while studying for her part.

The 23-year-old starlet, a product of Monroe, Conn., says she knew nothing of drugs or addicts before the film, and grew up believing that drug users were the vilest of people.

But she learned otherwise, she said, as she developed her role as Rosa, a hard drug user and girlfriend of a Puerto Rican war lord in Harlem.

The film is based on the experiences of Rev. David Wilkerson (played by Boone), a small-town Pennsylvania minister who penetrated the underworld of juvenile gangs of New York in 1958 to help savage youths living in a savage world. Wilkerson's book from which the name of the film was taken was written shortly after his experiences and was considered a best seller.

Weeks before filming, Miss Giroux toured New York's ghettos under the guidance of two users. She met their pushers, their friends and watched the drug starved youths jab the heroin-filled needles repeatedly before penetrating their scar-hardened veins.

"They're beautiful people," Miss Giroux says, "Underneath their hardened exteriors, they're like you and me, with the same fears and problems, only they've chosen the wrong way to solve them."

Spending almost a week in one of upper New York's rehabilitation centers for girls, Miss Giroux studied the girls, most from respectable families, who had become involved in drugs.

"At first they were reluctant to talk," she said. "They've been considered 'freaks' by society for so long, it was hard for many of them to open up."

The girls, however, soon laid bare their messed up lives to the warm and sensitive young actress. She watched as many went through the tortuous withdrawal symptoms. She saw others crawling along the floor like animals while in the throes of a bad LSD trip.

She leaned to act like an addict for the part, but she also became convinced that if young people could actually see an addict during withdrawal or one on a bad LSD trip, they would never turn to drugs.

DISBELIEF—Cast as a heroin addict in Pat Boone's new film "The Cross and the Switchblade," Jackie Giroux recalls the tortures of heroin-withdrawal she witnessed in Harlem's underworld while studying for her part.

That is the message, she said, she tries to relay to elementary and high chool students on tours across the nation.

"Don't just read about drugs, go and see the effects of drugs, and then decide whether you want to take drugs or not," she tells youths.

Miss Giroux, who lives in North Hollywood, said that because of her experiences in New York and as vice president of the St. Anthony Foundation for drug addicts in Los Angeles, she has been asked to discuss the drug problem at schools throughout the country and on radio and television broadcasts.

Miss Giroux's recent rise to a leading role has been the result of almost six years of training and experience in stock and off-broadway productions.

She studied at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York the year after graduating from high school and within a few months received her first professional role in the off-Broadway production of "The Coffee Lover."

Many more roles in off-Broadway productions and television programs followed, until in 1969 she was cast as the drug addict in "The Cross and the Switchblade."

Numerous Pests Find Way Into California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —California has been invaded by the honey locust pod borer, the imported mealybug, the tornillo bagworm and the juniper webworm.

All these pests found their way into the state last year, the California Agriculture Department reported Thursday. The agency's insect identifiers tallied 39,021 specimens in California in 1970—a 17 per cent jump over 1969.

Festival Of Ballet Scheduled

The Marin Civic Ballet has scheduled the 1973 Western Regional Ballet Festival for the new Marin Veterans Memorial Auditorium, according to Phyllis Thelen, who will serve as co-chairman.

The festival, held annually, involves 500 people and 19 regional ballet companies from four western states, Mrs. Thelen said.

Mrs. Thelen explained that the festival, set for sometime in May, will include three days of classes, conferences and workshops with performances each evening.

The dates have not yet been chosen, she said.

The auditorium at the Civic Center due to open this fall will "lend itself" to such an event, Mrs. Thelen said.

She described regional ballet companies as groups which "bridge the gap" for outstanding students between ballet schools and professional companies.

Each year the various companies compete before the festival to determine which works will be performed at the festival.

Mrs. Thelen said that next Monday Marin Civic Ballet will perform a contemporary work, "Turangalila," written especially for the company, and "Carnival," for an "adjudicator," Robert Barnett, director of the Atlanta Ballet.

The performance will be at 8:30 p.m. in Angelico Hall at Dominican College of San Rafael.

Stuffed Great Auk Brings $21,600

LONDON (UPI)—A stuffed Great Auk, a bird extinct since the middle of the 19th Century, was sold Thursday for $21,600 by Sotheby's auction house.

FAMILY

"Cougar Country" - A true wildlife adventure story of the events in the life of a curious young cougar.

"Cromwell" - Richard Harris is Oliver Cromwell and Alec Guinness plays King Charles I in this exquisitely photographed historical spectacular about the Puritan Reformation and civil war in 17th Century England.

"My Fair Lady" - Based on Shaw's comedy about a witty speech authority who transforms a flower girl with a cockney accent into an aristocratic lady. Extraordinary entertainment for all.

"Tora, Tora, Tora" - Impressive dramatization of the attack on Pearl Harbor, seen from both the American and Japanese sides, brings into focus history leading up to the attack. Excellent cast.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Airport" - Absorbing and gripping drama with outstanding all star cast is the behind-the-scenes action in a blizzard paralyzed airport when an emergency arises. Buildup is intense and may prove too exciting for younger children. Very well done.

"Darling Lili" - Film unsuccessfully combines a comic romance with a World War I espionage story. The songs, costumes and period settings are extravagant and compensate for the slow pace.

"Great White Hope" - Quasi-fictionalized story of first black heavy weight champion, Jack Johnson. It exposes ugliness of racial hate and the blood lust of fight ring. Strong drama will appeal to fight fans.

"I Never Sang For My Father" - Exceptionally well acted but heart rending emotional drama of a father-son relationship. Sensitive subject of a parent who becomes a burden to his children is well handled, but not solved. Thought provoking.

ADULTS ONLY

"Fellini Satyricon" - Drawing a parallel between contemporary western civilization and decadent Rome before Christ, is a long drawn out bore so brutal in its lurid decadence and deformed grotesque freaks, nudity and homo as well as hetero sexuality that it is hard to digest.

"Five Easy Pieces" - Freeform portrait of an exile from a high-brow musical family who cops out of a routine lower middle class existence. Explicit sex and frank dialogue.

"Hard Contract" - A professional assassin who murders and makes love with the same heartless detachment falls in love. Nudity, explicit sex are interwoven with provocative discussions about good and evil, life and death.

"Midnight Cowboy" - Offbeat story about a vain Texan who comes to New York to be a male prostitute and his relationship with a crippled bum. Many sordid depressing scenes but thought provoking. Well acted.

"Owl and the Pussycat" - Racy adult comedy about a prostitute with illusions of being a model and a shy unsuccessful author and their unlikely relationship. Sex is frank and abundant and Barbra's vocabulary includes as much profanity as the average stevedore and at the top of her voice.

"What Do You Say To A Naked Lady?" - Allen Funt brings the situation to the screen of the reactions of unsuspecting passers-by to a naked lady. Some moments are humorous but generally it is just smut.

"Where's Poppa" - A vulgar black comedy presents an outrageous picture of a monstrous mother and her guilt-ridden harassed son. Wild scenes of rape, nudity, heavily sprinkled with gutter talk are unrestrained and brutally frank and may prove offensive to some.

"Women In Love" - D. H. Lawrence's novel about total physical and spiritual love between the same and the opposite sex are explored extensively by very explicit, sensual sex scenes. Direction, acting and photography very good.

East Germans Renew Berlin Harassment

They halted traffic for one hour at the West German and West Berlin terminals of the land routes through East Germany.

Appeal To Halt Air Rifle Shots

The Enchanted Knolls Homeowners Association board has appealed to residents to help combat the growing number of incidents involving youths shooting air rifles and pellet guns in the area.

President Robert B. Rankin said the board was told Tuesday that one resident suffered a window broken by a pellet fired into her house. Others reported seeing youths armed with air rifles in the marshland near Mill Valley's small craft harbor.

"This entire area is a game refuge and firing and display of any weapon is illegal," said Rankin.

He asked residents to report all incidents involving guns to Mill Valley police and said parents should remind their children not to carry or discharge weapons in Enchanted Knolls.

PUBLISHER'S VISION

Poetry In The Streets

By PAT ANGLE

What happens when a former Communist, American war hero, ecologist and soil scientist who fought in the Spanish Civil War sets out to publish a literary magazine?

If that ordinary fellow is burly, bearded Milt Weiner of Sausalito, the result is The Suspicious Humanist, a bright, fresh journal of good poetry and wry comment, sans hate messages or heavy political diatribes.

The little magazine, which has been published three times since it first saw the light of day about a year ago, is Weiner's attempt to capture some of the winds of creativity which seem to circulate over Marin.

"A lot of good poetry is lost because it is never published," he explained. "Or else it's printed on stapled-together mimeographed sheets which nobody reads, a real disservice to the people to write it."

By contrast, Weiner's journal is attractive, appealing and very readable, thanks partly to his daughter, Debbie, who has done the art work for the past issues and to a commune in Oakland which has donated the printing.

Weiner said he is looking for "good stuff, not genius," but he never knows what he will discover on the napkins, business cards and even pieces of leather people pass to him with samples of their writing. And that mystery and uncertainty is half the fun, he says.

"Ordinary people are extraordinary because each person has his own unique spiritual imagery," the publisher said. "Some raggedy-looking flophouse cat I meet on Bridgeway among the hot dogs and cheap hamburgers might turn out to be Shakespeare," he added with genuine hope in his voice.

With that thought to spur him on, Weiner seeks contributions for the Humanist from every available source, from businessmen to street people. He has even gotten poetry from visitors passing through Sausalito who stopped to ask him the way to the nearest restroom. "I found a very beautiful poem that way," he said with relish.

The variety of thought and style contained in the magazine reflects the diverse sources. The latest issue, for example, is an eclectic mixture which includes spiritual love poetry, a salute to the No Name Bar, an apology to a Harvard history professor from a former student and the Ten Commandments.

Despite the antiliterary effects of television, Weiner is convinced a renaissance in poetry is underway. "Poets are everywhere, in all walks of life; people writing because they have a fleeting image or experience they want to crystalize and remember."

Weiner, who lightly dubs himself a "very, very unsuccessful publisher," gives the Humanist away free and prints about 1,500 copies of the magazine whenever "conditions (like money) are right and God is willing." He does boast 18 paid subscribers "persons of means who insisted on helping" and consequently has no fears for the magazine's future.

It is not his first publishing venture. Several years ago he published a history of Sausalito, a legend of Cannery Row in Monterey and a practical guide for the home gardener. The books, done in calligraphy (handlettered pages) were critical successes, but final flops.

But Weiner, who shows a marked unconcern for the dollar, is optimistic of eventual success in publishing; it will probably not be monetary. "Why the other day I swapped one of my Humanists for two copies of the Watch Tower (a publication of the Jehovah's Witnesses)," he said happily.

If wide experience is a qualification for a good publisher, Weiner should be an excellent one. His father, a vodka manufacturer, fled Russia to escape Czarist persecution of Jews, but the family also encountered persecution after settling on a dirt farm in New Jersey, Weiner said.

He recalled encounters with the Ku Klux Klan and fights with other boys at school.

Later, he said, the family moved to New York and he became a "child rum runner," delivering bathtub gin wrapped in newspapers.

It was his disenchantment with reality and search for "a better world" which led Weiner (and thousands of other young idealists) to join the Communist Party as an organizer in the 1930s. "The Communists said all men were brothers and it sounded wonderful to me," he recalled. He stayed with the party until he became disillusioned with anti-semitism in Communist countries after the war.

Weiner said he fought against Franco in Spain, then joined the American Army during World War II and served in New Guinea and Indonesia before being wounded. His decorations include the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart.

Because he wanted to do something useful for humanity after the war, Weiner (who already had a degree in history from an eastern college) went back to school for a degree in soil science from the University of California. "I thought helping to raise food, forage and fiber crops would be a positive occupation," he said.

When ecology was a word most people had to look up in the dictionary when they happened to run across it, Weiner was engaged in the battle to save California's environment, particularly agricultural land.

In the early '60s he led the fight (doomed to failure) to save orchards in the Santa Clara Valley from developers. At the same time he organized "People for Open Space," which has grown into a large, statewide conservationist group, but left his brainchild to others when "it outgrew me."

Now, he hopes to devote all his time to The Suspicious Humanist and provide Marin County, through the magazine, with "a little bit of tenderness and compassion."

Why "suspicious" Humanist? Because, as Weiner puts it: "I'm 58 years old and very much aware that some human beings do not always have good motives. He is suspicious, for example, of the people who say "progress is more buildings, more freeways and more developments."

From his unofficial offices — the streets of Sausalito, the No Name Bar and Tides Bookstore — he takes pleasure in the adventure of publishing. "When I see someone coming up to me with a piece of paper in his hand, my heart leaps," he said.

Baptiste Warns Of 'Growth'

Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste yesterday warned the Novato Chamber of Commerce against stressing growth for the sake of growth.

Baptiste advised at a chamber luncheon that in its push for growth, the group should have "due regard for the total environment".

The question is whether the chamber will be an influential force in shaping the future of Novato or will "alienate itself to the community by stressing growth for the sake of growth," Baptiste said.

"Unless attitudes change to a large degree, I'm not optimistic on the basis of actions of the last few years," he commented.

Baptiste cited "coolness to the downtown plan," and those who call it "pie in the sky," and labeled this as the wrong attitude.

He also criticzed chamber endorsement of planned office space at the Ignacio Industrial Park while the city was seeking to reduce it to protect the downtown area.

If these attitudes continue, the chamber will have "less and less influence in the community," Baptiste asserted.

Novato's environment can be a catalyst for "full blown prosperity," Baptiste said. There should be emphasis on natural beauty and a limiting of "garishness of the community at all times in anything."

The chamber could "improve its image and sphere of influence by setting up a committee on how to proceed on some portions of the downtown plan," he said.

Chamber president Charles Lewis commented that the chamber "wants to improve the town as well as business."

Bolinas Burglary AT School Reported

Cameras and sound recording equipment, as well as $13 in cash, were taken in a burglary of Bolinas School Feb. 21, Marin County Sheriff's Office reported yesterday.

Total loss was estimated to be $597, deputies said.

Task Forces To Probe Santa Venetia Troubles

The troubled community of Santa Venetia, plagued with juvenile vandalism, drug use and burglaries, will get another close scrutiny from two task forces set up yesterday by the Marin Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission.

The commissioners, headed by Rev. James C. Upshaw, decided that this will not be just another study by a group of layment, but will include all available professionals such as probation officers, church leaders and youth workers.

They will concentrate in these two areas:

1. The home-owners and quasi-governmental groups. This task force will try to get a picture of home-owner organizations, Gallinas Valley Sanitary District, and other quasi-governmental groups. The committee will explore possibilities of incorporation for residents in their attempt to get better services. Commissioners Jack Heard and Natalie Lewis volunteered for this task force.

2. Youth participation. This task force will interview youths and adults for their opinions, see what recreational facilities are feasible, and contact existing agencies such as the San Rafael continuation school, Catholic Social Service, Family Service Agency, Jewish Community Center, YMCA, Senior Citizens Coordinating Council, and the Marin Housing Authority. Commissioners who volunteered for this task force were Upshaw, Gary Giacomini, Cecelia Michael, Mary-Ann Garthwaite, and Terrence Keenan.

Within six weeks, the two task forces hope to get enough information to make specific recommendations such as the use of college students or social and youth workers to start youth activities in the community.

The only commissioner who refused to join either task force was Richard Oesterman, who said he sees no need for any more committees and subcommittees.

During yesterday's discussion at the Hall of Justice, Oesterman got into an argument with George Mills, a teacher at the San Rafael Work Study Center, a continuation school located at 215 Mission Avenue. Mills said his students are bitter about the statement attributed to Charles Prandi, inspector in the sheriff's juvenile bureau.

"Mr. Prandi is quoted as saying most of the delinquency comes from kids in continuation school," said Mills. "I have kids who have tremendous hostility toward the Prandis. They're really uptight."

Mills said that a sheriff's deputy one day just walked into his school and removed a girl student from class. "This is the type of thing that builds up hostility."

"I can't sit here and listen to someone run down the Prandis," flared Oesterman. "The man and his wife (Jeanette Prandi is also a deputy in the sheriff's juvenile bureau) are doing a good job."

A juvenile who commits a misdemeanor or a felony should be picked up, in class or out, said Oesterman. "Police can't go in with kid gloves and say please, could I talk to someone. They don't have that kind of time" He said the only youngsters who are "uptight" are those who commit crimes and are afraid of being caught.

With the exception of Oesterman, the commissioners voted unanimously for another six-week study.

In another action, the commission agreed to meet with the Marin Juvenile Justice Commission to explore a possible merger of the two organizations.

Cotati To Study Marin Housing Authority Setup

The Cotati City Council last night said it would take a look at the Marin County Housing Authority operation before considering joining the Sonoma County Housing Authority.

C. Eugene McAdams, temporary secretary of the new authority, said the Sonoma County supervisors, sitting as directors, have applied for federal funds to provide an initial 400 living units for low income families.

McAdams said the housing units would be rented from private owners by the authority and sublet to families at 25 per cent of their income.

The council questioned several aspects of the plan and said it would spend an afternoon in Marin visiting authority housing to determine if it would be effective in Cotati.

The Cotati City Council also:

POLICE — Approved the employment of an additional police officer so the department can give 24 hour protection.

ANNEXATION — Introduced an ordinance approving the annexation of 58 acres on East Cotati Avenue. The Forhim Corp. intends to build apartments and single family homes.

INTERSECTIONS — Studied preliminary plans to signalize intersections at Old Redwood and Gravenstein highways and at West Cotati and Maple Avenues.

Robles Teams Up In Attempt To Stab Guard At Quentin

The man known as the "most dangerous killer" on San Quentin's death row reportedly attempted to maintain his reputation yesterday by teaming up with a fellow inmate in an unsuccessful attempt to stab a guard.

Leo Estrada Robles, 26, who is currently being retried in Marin Superior Court on the penalty phase of a murder case dating from 1967, and Tony Lara, 24, tried to kill Sgt. Charles E. Lawrence, officers said.

Lawrence had gone to Lara's cell with medicine about 12:40 a.m., but Lara was waiting with a spike-like device concealed under a blanket. He thrust it at the officer but missed, officials said.

Robles, called the meanest man in San Quentin, after being convicted of two murders and who has repeatedly had prison-made weapons taken from him, threw a similar weapon attached to a broom handle at Sergeant Lawrence but also missed.

James W. L. Park, associate warden at the prison, said the weapons had been fashioned from parts of a typewriter lent to Robles by another death row inmate.

Final arguments in Robles' penalty phase retrial are due to begin Monday in Superior Court, where the convict has admitted being a "killer for hire" on death row.

During the long trial which began in January, Robles has threatened to kill his attorney, Deputy Public Defender Edward Briggs, as well as kill or maim Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Jerry R. Herman, his wife and children.

He also has threatened during court outbursts that he plans to kill six correctional officers at San Quentin and that he has "contracts" for two death row inmates that he has been hired to kill.

Robles, who has "killer for hire," tatooed on his stomach, was convicted of hanging his cellmate in Santa Clara County Jail in 1965, where he was awaiting trial for stabbing a hitchhiker.

He later was convicted of killing a fellow patient in the San Quentin psychiatric ward by slashing his throat with a razor blade imbedded in a toothbrush and by pounding his head with weights.

He was sentenced to death for this murder but the sentence was reversed by the California Superior Court which ruled that the late Judge Harold J. Haley should not have allowed Robles to act as his own attorney during the penalty phase of the trial.

During the current trial, San Quentin officers have testified that Robles is considered so dangerous that he is never allowed to exercise except when all the other death row inmates are locked up.

Strange Way To Find Patient's Sex

BOSTON (UPI)—There are other ways to do it but radiologists at Boston City Hospital have statistically shown they can determine a patient's sex from the pattern of cartilage calcification in the ribs.

Studying chest X-ray films of 1,000 patients ranging in age from 10 to 95 years, they found a type of calcification they call marginal occurs most frequently in men.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Mercury. The evening star is Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1770 British troops killed five civilians in the "Boston Massacre."

In 1953 the Soviet Union announced that Premier Josef Stalin had died at the age of 73 from a cerebral hemmorhage.

A thought for the day: Josef Stalin said: "In the U.S.S.R., work is the duty of every able-bodied citizen, according to the vcpfciple: He who does not work, neither shall he eat."

10 Schools Shut As Quake Hazard

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Ten city schools were evacuated Wednesday because of possible earthquake safety hazards, bringing to 13 the number of schools closed since the destructive Feb. 9 temblor.

The Board of Education ordered the latest closures after reports from the Department of Building and Safety. Some 9,500 students were affected.

All of the buildings were erected before 1933 and do not conform to present earthquake construction standards. The affected students will remain out of school until preparations are completed to bus them to other facilities.

With A Long Trump Suit Try To Set Up Side Suit

The beginner is taught to draw trumps early to prevent a defender from ruffing one of his tricks. This rule does not apply when you have a substandard trump suit. The rule, then, is to set up your side suit before you touch trumps: It may even help you if the opponents seek a ruff.

LOW SPADE

West opens the seven of spades, and East wins with the ace. East returns the deuce of spades, and you are forced to ruff in the dummy.

You cannot afford to draw trumps at once, because East would later take the ace of diamonds and put his partner in with a spade to draw the last trump. Then the defenders would take the rest of the spades.

After ruffing the second spade in dummy your best bet is to lead the king of diamonds. East refuses the trick, and you continue with the queen of diamonds.

TAKES ACE

East takes the ace of diamonds and may give his partner a diamond ruff. If so, you have an easy time with the rest of the hand. You can draw trumps and run the diamonds, discarding your losers in the black suits. West's ruff comes at the expense of his natural trump trick, and East thus draws his partner's fangs by leading the third diamond.

East should return a heart after taking the ace of diamonds. Suppose you win, ruff a spade in dummy (using up dummy's last trump), and return the low diamond to your eight.

WEST RUFFS

West ruffs and locks you in dummy by returning a club. You have already lost three tricks so cannot afford to lead clubs. If you lead a diamond, West will get another trump trick.

Do not allow such possibilities to steer you away from such contracts as four hearts. The average East will give his partner a diamond ruff, and you will make your contract with ease.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
S- K J 8 7 3
H- J 10 7 5
D- 9 7
C- 5 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

Your hand is worth just one response, so you must raise partner's major suit rather than show your own suit.

Special X-Ray For Nosebleeds

NEW YORK (UPI)—The source of massive nosebleeds that won't stop, even with nasal packs, can be detected by a special X-ray technique which can pinpoint the ruptured vessel, according to two Emory University radiologists.

Useangiography, in which radiopaque contract material is injected into the principal neck artery, permitting the visualization of blood vessels on x-ray film. X-rays taken at split-second intervals reveal a pooling of the contract material at the bleeding point. Once located, the surgeon can operate to halt the bleeding.

'TV Blocks Learning In Classroom'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Television is not the solution to teaching children; it is one of the problems, an elementary school teacher told a senate committee Thursday.

Jan Conklin, a teacher at Buena Vista School in San Francisco, was a panel member before a hearing of the U.S. Senate Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity.

"You gave $80 million to television" she said to chairman Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn. "While a program like 'Sesame Street' is better than the other stuff, television isn't the answer. It is the problem."

Miss Conklin, who teaches five-, six-and seven-year-olds in kindergarten and the first two grades, said her children watched television, but did not learn from it.

"Children learn from doing," she said. "You would do better with that $80 million by giving $100 to each of 8,000 classrooms for them to by things like blocks, trucks, clay, paints and other materials."

Miss Conklin called the typical American classroom, structured for children sitting in rows and listening, "a travesty. We should focus on children learning, rather than on teachers teaching."

She said she has a Chinese saying above the door of her classroom, saying, "I hear, I forget. I see, I remember. I do, I understand."

The committee, which later visited Buena Vista and other classrooms, also heard from Robert Jiminez, principal of the Buena Vista School, and Mrs. Beatrice Mexa, one of the para-professionals working there.

Mrs. Meza explained that the para-professionals, who work six hours a day, are somewhat "mother figures" for the children while the teachers are in charge of the classes.

Jiminez said the Buena Vista School, which has been in operation for a year and a half, goes from kindergarten to the sixth grade and has 400 students, 17 teachers and 23 para-professionals.

"Two-thirds of the children are of Spanish or Mexican ancestry," he said, "and you wouldn't believe the mixture of the rest —white, Indian, Samoan, Arabic ..."

Highway Bill To End North-South Split In Funds

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to allocate highway construction funds according to specific highway needs rather than according to the present north-south split has been introduced by Assemblyman Peter F. Schabarum.

Under the present system, southern California gets 60 per cent of the funds and northern California gets 40 per cent.

The Covina Republican called the formula "completely outdated, confusing and unrealistic. It does not meet the priority needs of the prime areas of traffic demand."

His bill introduced Thursday would set four-year cycles for determining highway needs. The bill would allocate 85 per cent of the highway funds to districts based on the area's number of registered vehicles. The rest of the funds would be allocated by the state highway commission.

Retired Employe Bill Would Hike Income

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Assemblyman Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, Thursday submitted a bill increasing the income of retired public employes.

The Republican minority leader said his measure called for a new ceiling of three per cent annually in cost-of-living increases for those in the public employes retirement system.

Quake's Unexpected Twist Was Danger, Red Cross Aide Says

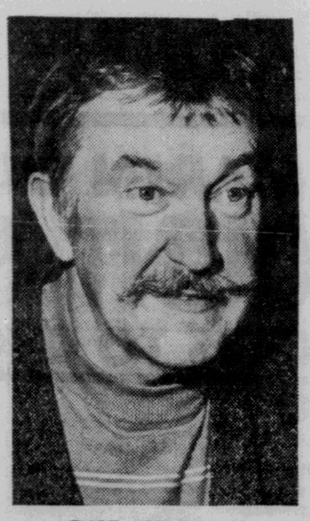
Danger, not damage, put an unexpected twist in Los Angeles disaster control last month, according to Paul Anderson, professional staff member of the Marin Chapter, American Red Cross.

Anderson has returned to San Rafael after helping care for the thousands of persons displaced by the gigantic temblor that killed 62 persons and cracked the massive Van Norman dam on Feb. 9.

The Red Cross official said that planners were somewhat caught by surprise by the need to evacuate, house and care for 17,000 persons who had to be evacuated from the path raging waters would take if the dam toppled. Comparatively few refugees were moved out of the areas of heaviest building damage.

The 10 shelters operated by the Red Cross served 66,500 meals before the displaced families were allowed to return to their homes. Mobile field units provided 70,000 sandwiches, Anderson reported.

Once people returned to their homes they found "little visible damage, but the utilities — electricity and gas — both were out in many cases," Anderson reported.



PAUL ANDERSON
Disaster relief man

"But we felt it was better for the people to be back in their homes," Anderson explained. "We made sure they had blankets and heaters if needed. Red Cross vans delivered 108,600 meals to homes where the kitchens couldn't be used."

He listed statistics for diapers furnished, baby food provided, nursing care for 1,079 persons and dozens of other needs caused by the earthquake.

The Red Cross made sure the victims had adequate clothing, bedding and other items "on the basis of need, not on the basis of what they had lost," Anderson explained.

In the first two weeks, Red Cross outlay in Los Angeles County passed $1 million. The earthquake rehabilitation chore, coupled with other major relief operations such as the Hurricane Celia clean-up, have exhausted the national Red Cross disaster fund. The Marin Chapter is joining other chapters in campaigning for additional public donations needed for the rest of the fiscal year.

Anderson said that much of his work in Los Angeles was in helping families get rehabilitation aid from the federal Small Business Administration and department of Housing and Urban Development. Among the services available in Los Angeles, he said, was federally supplied housing for up to one year, for families whose homes were destroyed.

Anderson also worked on rehabilitation of families caught in the Good Friday, 1964, earthquake in Alaska. "That was much stronger — if it had happened in Los Angeles, it really would have been terrible," he commented.

Yorty Threat To Oppose Doves

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mayor Sam Yorty says he may enter the New Hampshire Democratic presidential primary if nobody challenges what he calls dovish candidates.

Yorty, a maverick Democrat and mayor since 1961, told a news conference Wednesday he did not want the field left open to senators such as Edmund Muskie of Maine, who Yorty claimed has been "harrassing" President Nixon on Southeast Asia.

Yorty said he preferred a contender such as Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who has supported American policy in Vietnam. When asked if he would enter the primary, he replied:

"It's possible, if nobody but the people I regard as unsound are in the race."

Driver Breaks Ribs In Crash

A San Rafael man was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for broken ribs suffered in an auto accident.

San Rafael police said Sydney P. Farber, 46, of 65 Greenbrae Boardwalk was hurt when his car collided with one driven by Geneva May Morris, 72, of 110 Laurel Place, Apt. B-1, at 3:40 p.m. at Second and Irwin streets.

They Found America In People's Homes

WANDERERS — Peter Georges was accompanied by his St. Bernard, Teddy, when he stopped for a rest in San Rafael last September. Teddy is now dead, killed in a traffic accident, and Georges, their travels at an end, has married and settled down in Petaluma.

By BONNIE BARD

A 70,000-mile North American odyssey has ended for a young man and his dog — ended with the beginning of a new life for the man, ended in death for the dog that was his faithful companion.

Twenty-four-year-old Georges is back in Petaluma, starting point of his long journey. Missing is his constant traveling companion, a 200-pound St. Bernard named Teddy.

The dog, which accompanied Georges on his trek through Alaska, Canada and the 48 continental states, was killed by a car on Highway 101 last week, shortly after Georges's return.

Georges's journey — made on foot and by plane, train and boat — began as somewhat of an accident in January 1969 when he decided to extend what began as a short trip from his San Francisco home to Petaluma.

Last month, Georges returned, put away his hiking boots, got married and settled in Petaluma. He also got a job as a salesman for a cable television firm and says he is beginning to adjust to a more conventional existence.

Georges met his wife, the former Mary Lee Hickey, through a Petaluma cousin and had found his way back to the Bay Area several times to see her during his travels. He was most recently in Marin and Sonoma last September.

Teddy, the St. Bernard, traveled with Georges on highways, in canoes, jets and baggage cars as the two made their way around North America.

"He was my guardian angel," Georges mused sadly, remembering the many cold nights he and Teddy huddled together for warmth. "The highway department buried him between the railroad tracks and highway in Novato," he said, calling the location "fitting."

"Teddy always brought people a happy experience," he recalled. "That should be a human goal. If people were nice to each other, we wouldn't have all these problems."

While a lumbering St. Bernard might be considered a handicap by some, Georges insists Teddy was no such thing for him. "He was an ice breaker," he said, reporting that many times people would take Georges home for dinner so their children might play with the friendly dog.

With his traveling days behind him, Georges has plotted what will be an even greater challenge for the future.

"I want to become a priest," he said. Fingering the newly acquired gold band on his left hand, Georges said he feels confident that the Catholic Church will begin to change and that married priests will someday be accepted.

"Man made rituals and rules will be where the changes come," he said. "We'll be growing closer to what the original Christianity was."

Despite his marital responsibilities, Georges said he hopes he and his wife can continue to live life freely and perhaps someday organize a commune.

When he speaks of a commune, the short-haired young man dismisses the idea of a crash pad filled with young people.

"I'm thinking that a structured commune might be a good half-way measure with people helping each other," Georges said. He visualizes a "retreat" type atmosphere that will bring all kinds of individuals from all walks of life together to share a common experience. It would not be plush.

Recalling some of the cold and lonely nights he spent soul searching on his wanderings, Georges said he wished that more people would take the time to travel and see all facets of the nation.

"I stayed in all kinds of homes — in ghettoes, policemen's homes and in homes of the very rich," he said. "People are just tremendous — with all the horrible things happening, people are still not afraid to take in a stranger."

Regional Order Prohibits Plant's Waste Dumping

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Water Resources Control Board yesterday sustained a regional order prohibiting U.S. Steel Corp.'s Pittsburg plant from dumping wastes into a Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta slough.

The board affirmed the ban issued last year by the San Francisco Region Water Resources Control Board to stop the plant from discharging zinc, iron and other wastes in the slough between Pittsburg and Antioch in Contra Costa County.

The board also ordered its executive officer, Jerome B. Gilbert, to ask the state attorney general to obtain an injunction against the company and seek a fine for each day's violation of state antipollution laws.

The action could make U.S. Steel subject to a maximum $6,000-day fine under state law.

U.S. Steel had asked the state board to reverse the regional board's order, but the state action in effect denies the appeal.

William Everts, a San Francisco attorney who represented U.S. Steel, had no comment on the board's decision.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will meet Monday at 8 p.m. at city hall to continue review of the city's zoning ordinance.

Assembly Votes Legislative Say In Southern Bridge Construction

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly yesterday overwhelmingly passed a bill prohibiting construction of a southern crossing bridge over San Francisco Bay without the authorization of the legislature.

The bill by Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, was sent to the Senate on a 54-7 vote.

All seven opposition votes were cast by Southern California Republicans.

Crown said the decision to build the bridge was made in 1965. Since then, he said, the public has been made aware of the hazardous health effects of automobile-caused air pollution.

He also said that Bay Area counties have committed large sums of money, including revenues from existing bridge tolls, to pay for construction of the Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) system.

"If we proceed and construct another bridge, this works at cross purposes and encourages use of the automobile," said Crown.

Construction is scheduled to begin on the $500 million bridge at the end of this year.

Crown said bridge construction is favored by the Toll Bridge Authority which administers operation of Bay Area bridges but is opposed by most residents of the area.

The bill would prevent the Authority from beginning construction on the bridge without the specific authority of the legislature.

The seven opponents were Republicans Robert Badham of Newport Beach, W. Craig Biddle of Riverside, Robert Burke of Huntington Beach, Frank Lanterman of La Canada, Peter F. Schabarum of Covina, John Stull of Leucadia and Floyd Wakefield of South Gate.

COMPLETE FRUSTRATION — Goalie Gary Smith of the California Seals was the unfortunate victim of 63 Boston Bruins' shots-on-goal last night in Boston. He stopped all but seven, including this one in the second period by the smiling Derek Sanderson. Smith threw up his hands in despair, a fitting gesture considering the Seals lost, 7-0.

Ali Likes Role As Underdog

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—It's okay with Muhammad Ali if people say he'll lose Monday night to Joe Frazier. He certainly doesn't believe it, and he relishes his role as underdog.

"Making me the underdog was the best thing anybody could have done for me," Ali said at his training headquarters Thursday.

"When I hear all those predictions about Frazier, the great Frazier, dangerous Frazier, young Frazier and me being older and not as sharp—that just makes me want to work harder," the ex-champ went on.

"Before I can go, I gotta have pressure on me, I gotta have something to make me go.

"And this is beautiful, all these people sayin' 'Can he do it? Is he gonna be the old Ali?' I feel the pressure. I feel it buildin' up."

Among those who have picked Frazier over Ali in the Monday night heavyweight championship fight at New York's Madison Square Garden are Joe Louis, Jack Dempsey and Archie Moore—and the oddsmakers, who so far have made Frazier the slight favorite.

"They're gonna be shocked at how easy he is to hit," says Ali.

"I just looked at films of his fight with Jimmy Ellis. You know, Ellis was hitting him a lot in the first three rounds, hitting with hooks and jabs and all kinds of punches.

"And I know I'm faster than Ellis."

Ali says he'll win. Right now, he says, he's "a voice in the wilderness."

"But when it's over, they'll be looking in wonder and amazement at me and they'll be sayin' 'There he goes. He's still champ. He did it. There goes the king'."

"Joe Louis is gonna have to duck," he said.

Ali is finished with the rough work for the fight. He wound up his sparring with two rounds each against Rufus Brassell and Bunky Akins Thursday, showing a little of his strategy against Frazier—a fighter who likes to move in swinging.

When the two sparring mates did that, Clay either backpedaled and jabbed, suddenly became the aggressor himself, or stood against the ropes, covered his head and let the other fighter wear himself out throwing punches.

When the sparring was over, trainer Angelo Dundee said there would be no more. Today, Ali planned to work on the heavy and light bags and shadow-box in the ring of the 5th Street Gym.

"He's ready—he could fight tomorrow," said Dundee, who plans to take his fighter to New York Saturday.

He told Ali: "The next guy you hit will be Frazier."

Dickinson Is Doral Leader

68 Leads A Windy Round

MIAMI (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus didn't want to talk about it. But finally he answered "Yes," it is hard to get up for a golf tournament a week after winning the PGA.

The answer was obvious after Nicklaus landed in the water twice and three-putted one green for an opening round 74 in the $150,000 Doral Eastern golf tournament— six strokes behind Gardner Dickinson's pace-setting four-under par 68.

"It happens every time," said Nicklaus who then checked mentally through his record, discovering he has never won a tournament after winning a big event.

"I'm always like a wet washcloth for two weeks," he said. But he wasn't down on his game, adding he "probably hit the ball better" than he did in the first round of the PGA a week ago when he scored a 69.

Dickinson's attitude also seemed to revolve around last week's PGA. Although the tournament was played at Palm Beach Gardens, just a few miles away from his home, Dickinson didn't quality for the event.

And now, he's already thinking about next year's PGA: "I want to get enough points to get into the PGA next year."

The last tournament he won was the 1969 Colonial in Fort Worth, Tex., and last year skipping several events, he only managed to win $28,000.

Dickinson was an early starter and, with the rest of the first half of the field, he had to battle winds gusting to 25 miles an hour and temperatures diving as low as 70.

He said he was getting 30 yards more distance off the tee by using a more limber driver and credited Ben Hogan with recommending that he use a lighter putter to counteract the slower Bermuda greens. He said use of the putter was psychological, because using a light one gives him confidence enough to hit the ball harder without fear of going by the hole.

Dickinson had a one-shot lead over five 69 shooters—Homero Blancas, Ted Hayes, Bobby Nicholas, Gibby Gilbert and George Knudson.

J. C. Sneed and young Brian Allin were another stroke back at 70.

Gary Player stayed within reach at an even par 72, Julius Boros fell victim to the weather with a 79, leading money winner Tom Shaw shot a 74 and defending champion Mike Hill also had a 74. Hill's brother Dave was bunched with eight other golfers at one under par 71.

The early winds and cold took their toll with 12 golfers failing to break 80 — ron Cerrudo with an 81 — and only 16 golfers in a field of 156 broke the par 72 on the Doral Country Club's demanding "Blue Monster" course.

Three golfers quit, complaining they were ill during or after the morning round. Bruce Crampton withdrew after shooting a 40 on his first nine, Doug Ford shot an 80 and then withdrew and Ray Floyd dropped out with a sore hand after just a few holes. Bob Murphy dropped out before the round started.

BLASTING OUT — Gardner Dickinson blasted out of a trap on the 18th hole of the Doral Eastern Open golf tournament yesterday in Miami, Fla, and finished with a four-under-par 68 to take a one stroke lead at the end of the first round.

It's Canoe Time On The Lagoon

I can row a boat, canoe?

Sorry about that, but I just wanted to let you know that the Marin Canoe Club is having its annual races Sunday, 1 p.m. at Marin Civic Center lagoon.

The races, planned by Gordon Young and Paul Hewitt, will challenge all abilities and ages.

Following the races will be a workshop which will include a demonstration of the basic canoeing skills and methods of hauling canoes to insure safe driving plus an opportunity for all who are interested to practice paddling.

I wonder if they'll let me bring my rubber duck?

SPEAKING OF water sports, our prep writer, David Einstein, advises me that swimmer David Drake has transferred from San Rafael High School to Redwood and is a backstroker on the Giants' team. And I always thought drakes did the duck walk.

Anyway, it's a shame Drake didn't transfer to Drake, which would have made this a heckuva better column item.

I KNOW several politicians who would like to achieve the popularity of Rocky Shone, the former San Rafael High School football-baseball star now in his senior year at University of California.

Rocky, a slugging catcher, recently was elected captain of the Bear varsity team, an honor he held in both baseball and football at San Rafael.

The son of attorney and Mrs. Ray Shone of Nicasio, Rocky currently is hitting .417, living up to his advance notices that include a cover photo of him on the Cal baseball Press, Radio and TV Guide.

Being almost unanimously elected captain of a major university varsity squad is quite an honor, and I know you will join me in extending warmest congratulations to this fine young man.

LACROSSE, ANYONE? Yep, it's that time of year again and I am happy to report that Marin County has four of the five teams in the Northern California Lacrosse Association's junior division for high school boys in the 14-18 age bracket.

They are from the Corte Madera, San Rafael and Novato parks and recreation departments and the Church of the Latter Day Saints in Novato.

The Novato P & R team gets the honor of opening the season Sunday against San Francisco at the S.F. Polo Field.

Other big events this month include LDS vs. Novato at Palo Alto as a preliminary to the Stanford-Air Force game on March 13 and a Marin Junior All-Star team vs. Robert Louis Stevenson School at Pebble Beach on March 28.

KEEPING TABS on former Marin County high school stars in their university athletic careers, I am happy to report that Marin Catholic High alumnus Rick Fox has made the U. C. Berkeley freshman baseball squad as a catcher and outfielder.

Rick, you may recall, had his name placed on the Marin Catholic blanket as outstanding player for both football and baseball, the first time anyone has accomplished that honorable feat since John Boccabella back in the 1950s.

Bruins Blast Seals

BOSTON (UPI)—What's the difference between the National Hockey League's best team and its worst? Seven goals.

At least 7-0 was the score Thursday night when Boston blanked the hapless California Golden Seals Thursday night.

The Seals try to get it together again Saturday night at Philadelphia.

Arthur Ashe To Miss Net Opener

SYDNEY (UPI) — Arthur Ashe failed to arrive Friday with his fellow stars from the professional tennis circuit to compete in the $56,000 Australian Open tournament at White City commencing Sunday.

Ashe was left behind in Los Angeles Thursday when he showed at the airport with an expired visa for Australia. He had to go to San Francisco to get it renewed. It is possible he will miss the opening rounds of the tournament in which Australia's Rod Laver, winner of $122,000 so far this year, is the favorite.

Others on hand to launch Australia's tennis tournament season were Americans Denis Ralston, Bob Lutz, Charles Pasarell and Marty Reissen. Australians returning home in addition to Laver were John Newcombe, Tony Roche, Roy Emerson, Fred Stolle and Owen Davidson.

REDWOOD VS. CASTLEMONT IN OPENER

Pairings for next Thursday's opening round of the Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum pit Marin County Athletic League champion Redwood High School against champion Castlemont of the tough Oakland Athletic League.

The Giants of Larkspur will be slight underdogs in the game, which begins at 7:30 p.m. They are rated No. 7 among Bay Area teams in a poll of coaches which show Castlemont at No. 6.

Other first round pairings announced yesterday include St. Joseph's of the Catholic Athletic League vs. the runoff winner from the AAA league of San Francisco (either Poly or Washington) at 4:30 p.m. Berkeley of the Alameda County Athletic League vs. Lincoln of Stockton, a representative from the Valley Oak League, at 6 p.m. and Amador of the East Bay Athletic League against Hayward of the Hayward Athletic League at 9 p.m.

Sonoma Upset In Tournament

North Bay II League co-champion Sonoma High School fell to Miramonte of Orinda, 81-59 yesterday in a startling upset that highlighted the opening round of the annual Top of the Bay basketball tournament at Sonoma State College.

The Dragons top rated team in the Redwood Empire area at game time with a 20-1 record, suffered their worst defeat of the year.

Cardinal Newman, the other NBL II team, won easily over Woodland, 75-67, and co-champion teams from the NBL I also romped. Napa beat Eureka, 81-66, and Santa Rosa dumped Liberty of Brentwood, 75-62.

Meadow Club Gets First Double Eagle

Erick Engman of San Francisco yesterday fired the first double eagle on a par five hole in the history of the Meadow Club.

Engman, a member of San Francisco's Olympic Club, accomplished his history-making feat on the 509-yard, 13th hole, using a No. 1 wood and a No. 3 wood.

Although there have been holes-in-one recorded at the Fairfax golf course, which opened in 1927, Engman's was the first double-eagle.

Bucks Go After Record 19th Win

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The Milwaukee Bucks tied two National Basketball Association records with a 116-113 win over the Buffalo Braves Thursday night and will be trying to break one of them tonight against Detroit.

against Detroit.

But after that, the Bucks will just "take it easy" even though they have a shot at two more records.

The win was the 18th in a row for the Bucks, tying an NBA mark set last year by the New York Knicks. The Bucks also tied the record for games won at home—33—set in the 1949-50 season by the old Rochester Royals.

The Bucks will be trying to break the consecutive win record tonight against the Pistons at Detroit and Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello said he would "go all out" for that one.

"Sure, I want the record," Costello said. "But after that we're just going to take it easy. We've got to get ready for the playoffs. They're a hell of a lot more important than any records."

For most of the game against Buffalo it looked like the Bucks were going to tie the record in a breeze. Butwith the score 108-82, Buffalo ran off 14 points in a row and moved at one point to within three at 107-104.

But the Bucks got a couple of quick baskets and wrapped up the win. Oscar Robertson with 32 points and Lew Alcindor with 25 led Milwaukee while Bob Kauffman with 26 and Dave May with 25 led Buffalo.

The Bucks conceivably could break the record for most games won in a season—68, by Philadelphia in 1966-67. Milwaukee already has 63 wins and eight remaining games. They also could set a new record for highest winning percentage. The same Philadelphia team set that mark at .840.

Other records within reach of Milwaukee include:

—Most games won at home (33) set by Rochester in 1949-50. The Bucks have one home game remainin..)

—Most games won on the road (27) set last year by New York and in 1964-65 by Boston. The Bucks have won 26 already and have seven road games remaining.

—Best field goal percentage (.488) set by Milwaukee last year. This season the Bucks are hitting at a 510 clip.

Big Day For S.F. Rookie

PHOENIX (UPI)—It's a big day for young Chris Arnold, a 23-year-old Long Beach rookie who starts at second base for the San Francisco Giants in their Cactus League opener against Chicago today.

It could be a bigger day April 6 if the youngster is the starting second sacker for the Giants.

Arnold admits frankly that teammates like Willie McCovey, Bobby Bonds, Willie Mays and Ken Henderson are "my idols, my heroes. Still are. Now there I am out on the same field with them. Now I'll be playing with them against a big league team."

He says he's not nervous, "just anxious."

There are 31 games of spring training and the Giants have a game scheduled for every day.

Tough To Be Winner Betting On Fights

NEW YORK — As you know, it is the journalistic custom on the eve of a big fight to ask the opinion of the experts on the outcome — ex-fighters, managers, promoters, fight writers, movie stars, politicians and other poltroons.

Accordingly, we have brought our own expert, "Collodion" Callahan, the last of the great "cut" men, who has been corner man for champions great and small and, if the blood he has stopped in 50 years were collected behind a dam there would be enough to transfuse every man, woman and child in South America.

COLLODION was wrapping swabs around sticks and sticking them behind his ear the day we came upon him. He was working the semi-main in Scranton that night and he had himself "a bleeder," a fighter who "gets an eye" (English translation, "loses one") early in every fight. Collodion was also swabbing the callouses he has between his thumb and forefinger from stopping nosebleeds and sharpening the razor he uses to slit open "mouses" under eyes when I put the questions to him.

Q. Collodion, old man, how do you see the Ali-Frazier fight Monday?

A. I think they'll both be fighting their first professional fight.

Q. And how will it come out?

A. A draw. Neither one will lose his amateur standing.

Q. The books make Frazier a decided favorite.

A. The books reflect the sucker money. The books would have had Custer 8-5 over the Indians. There ain't a real gambler in the country would make a guy as easy to hit as Frazier a favorite over a debutante.

Q. You think Frazier is too easy to hit?

A. He couldn't duck a balloon. His face'll look like the Red Sea by the second round. If he lasts that long. You could sail paper boats on it. The only thing he's got going for him is that the other fellow likes to fight you from out-of-state. His idea of fighting is sniping at you from an upstairs window. A debate has more infighting.

Q. But neither one of these guys has ever been beaten!

A. Bellhops. Truck drivers. YMCA kids. Clumsy amateurs. That's all they fought. Ain't neither one of them fought a professional fighter unless he was 50 years old.

Q. But they're champions!

A. Champions! Dempsey must want to cry! Today, a kid goes to the gym and learns rope-skipping, they give him a title shot. Forty years ago, you fought 50 wars against guys who could knock over a locomotive with a left hook, and then they said, "Okay, now you graduated out of four-rounders." Then, you fought a few guys who would of starved to death unless someone peeled their bananas for them, and you made the semi-main in the Garden. We had FIGHTERS in those days.

Q. What's the champ's long suit?

A. Which one! The Ay-rab or Philadelphia Shorty?

Q. Ali.

A. Talking. He's absolutely got the best tonsils I ever see on a fighter. He has those other guys looking under beds all night. They come in the ring like a guy going up the attic of a haunted house with a candle in a thunderstorm. They think he's a ghost. Their teeth are chatterin' before he throws a punch. They're afraid the earth will open up if they hit him. Tell me, who was the guy gave the Ay-rab the most trouble? I'll tell you: the only guy he fought who couldn't speak English. That Bunnyveener couldn't understand a word he was saying. So, all he could see was a guy runnin' away from him. If he could have fought a lick, that South American would have run Ali right back to the dressing room.

Q. How many titles did you win, Collodion?

A. Well, I win the light-heavy title three times. I win the middleweight once and the lightweight about three.

Q. What! I don't find it in the record books!

A. Of course, you don't, dummy! You might try the grand jury transcripts, though. I rubbed ointment in the champ's eyes for one light-heavy title. I opened cuts wider pretending to stop them other times. Once, I put knockout drops in the water bottle. And, when I had a guy who needed a bicycle to stay alive, I'd say to him, "You get it now, kid, go in and slug with him." I've also won for my own guys. I put so much bicycle tape on one of my fighter's hands, he had to bowl the punch. The referee got a hernia trying to raise his hand in victory.

Q. You see no chance for Frazier?

A. He's a swarmer. He tries to walk right through you. If Ali sidesteps, Joe will wade right out into 33rd St. and get hit by a bus. His style is early rigor mortis.

Q. Then I should bet on Ali?

A. My friend, anyone who bets on a prize fight would buy the Brooklyn Bridge, play cards with strangers on a riverboat, and expect to get rich on chain letters. You'd get a better run for your money if you just took it and walked through Central Park lighting cigars with it after dark.

Cepeda Finally Inks Pact

By United Press International

It's funny the way some holdouts react to the impending cry of "play ball."

Atlanta first baseman Orlando Cepeda just managed to beat today's opening of the Braves' exhibition season by signing his 1971 contract for an estimated $95,000.

Cepeda thought he had the credentials for a hundred grand season on his 1970 record of a .305 batting average, 34 home runs and 111 RIB's. But Paul Richards is a tough competitor at the negotiating table and the club vice president convinced the Dominican Republican player to settle for less.

Manager Luman Harris named George Stone, Tom Kelley and Steve Barber to pitch against the Montreal Expos today. Atlanta, however, lost some strength Thursday when second baseman Felix Millan suffered a cut left big toe when he was stepped on by Ralph Garr in a base running drill. Rookie Earl Williams then suffered a broken nose when he collided with Garr in a rundown play.

In other games, Pittsburgh plays the Chicago White Sox, San Francisco meets the Chicago Cubs, Oakland faces San Diego, Boston tackles Houston and the Tokyo Lotte Orions play an exhibition with Milwaukee.

Boston Manager Eddie Kasko received word that Ray Culp's shoulder muscle pull has healed and the veteran righthander is ready to test his arm early next week. Culp had a 17-14 record last year.

Outfielder Tommie Agee (possible kidney stone), and infielders Al Weis (bruised right knee) and Bob Aspromonte (pulled groin muscle) were New York Mets casualties who will miss Saturday's game with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Most other teams were at top physical strength. The Chicago White Sox finally fielded a complete team, including Mike Andrews from Boston, Jay Johnstone from California and Rick Reichardt from Washington meeting in a Chisox uniform for the first time.

Elsewhere, Jim Northrup, Tim Hosley, Gates Brown and Mike Adams each collected two hits as the Joe Schultzes defeated the Charley Silveras, 5-0, in a Detroit Tigers intrasquad game; Gene Clines and rookie Dave Parker homered and Dave Cash and Charlie Sands got three hits apiece as the Frank Oceaks beat the Billy Shorts, 10-2, at the Pittsburgh training camp; outfielder Bernie Carbo, a .310 hitter last year, signed a $22,000 pact with Cincinnati, and rookie catcher Tony Auferio, honey-mooning in Florida, delivered the decisive hit for the second straight day as his seventh-inning homer enabled the Vern Benson's to defeat the Ken Boyers, 4-3, in the St. Louis camp.

ABC Keg Tourney To Start

DETROIT (UPI) — The 1971 American bowling congress tournament opens here Saturday for a 79-day run that will see more than 31,000 bowlers roll 265,004 games for prizes totaling $750,412.

Entrants are coming from all 50 states plus Canada, Puerto Rico, Bermuda, Japan, England and Venezuela for bowling's top attraction.

This year, the bowlers will compete on 40 lanes, which were especially installed at the riverfront Cobo Hall for the event.

This year also will mark the return of Bill Doehrman of Fort Wayne, Ind., who will be competing in his 61st straight ABC tourney. He'll be joined by another Fort Wayne veteran, Frank Carr, who will be in his 57th straight ABC.

Bob Strampe, of Detroit, winner last year in the classic all events category, isn't scheduled to bowl this year until May 5, while Jake Yoder, of Fort Wayne, winner of the regular singles category with 774 series, will bowl April 26.

A breakdown of the team entry shows 4,276 in the regular division, for the game's better non-pro bowlers; 1,917 in the Booster division, for teams with a combined average of 850 or less; and 26 in the Classic division, for the game's professionals. The 4,276 regular team entry is the second-highest in history, topped only by 4,800 in the 1948 ABC Tournament.

Upsurge In Theater Interest For Fight

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fight of the Champions Inc. said Thursday that sales of tickets for the closed circuit televising of Monday night's Joe-Frazier-Muhammad Ali heavyweight bout are "definitely on the upswing."

The promoters said a number of theaters here were sold out and that sellouts were reported for the spectrum in Philadelphia and the Washington, D.C. Coliseum.

Ticket prices go up to $30 at the more plush layouts of the 370 locations in the United States and Canada that will be televising the fight.

Jacket Kent Cooke, a partner in the venture, has 90 per cent of his 14,455-seat Los Angeles Forum sold.

The promoters expect to gross about $22.5 million for closed-circuit TV in the U.S., Canada and Britain and the live television rights in over 30 other countries.

Raiders' Davidson To Visit Hospital

DENVER, Colo. (UPI) — Ben Davidson, defensive end for the Oakland Raiders of the National Football League, will take part in a drop-in program for army veterans later this month at the Fitzsimmons General Hospital here.

The drop-ins, sponsored by Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp. and featuring professional athletes from various sports, have been conducted before youth groups in cities across the country since 1968.

Kinsella, only a freshman, won the opening event, the 500-freestyle, in 4:31.20, two seconds faster than the NCAA mark held by teammate Spitz, and almost nine seconds better than the old conference mark held by Hall.

Basketball

NEW YORK (UPI) —Massachusetts and Providence have joined Tennessee, Dayton and St. Bonaventure in the field for the March 20-27 National Invitation Tournament. Eleven berths remain to be filled for the post-season college basketball tourney.

Second team: Bill Steinmetz, Sacramento State, Jim Schwerm and Carl Massey of Humboldt State, Pat Reiley Hayward State, and Vance DeVost, San Francisco State.

Hockey

MONTREAL (UPI) — A severe snowstorm in Montreal has caused the first weather postponment of a game in National Hockey League history.

The scheduled game between the Canadiens and Vancouver Canucks Thursday night was called off because of a 19-inch blizzard which completely paralyzed the Montreal transportation system. It was only the third time in league history that a game had to be postponed for one reason or another.

Bowling

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI)—Sixteen semi-finalists headed by Joe Joseph of Lansing, Mich. compete today in head-to-head matches that will determine which five go into the finals of the $60,000 Professional Bowlers Association Buckeye Open.

Joseph, a 52-year-old veteran on the PBA tour, took the lead Thursday by rolling games of 214, 214, 247, 249, 248 and 196 in his final block to bring his 24-game total to 5285.

Warriors Vs. Chicago Tonight

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The San Francisco Warriors get to play one and then watch one here tonight in their drive for a playoff berth.

The Warriors lead San Diego by three lengths with nine games to go, but they won't play the Rockets tonight.

Instead, they'll play a hot Chicago team in the lid-lifter of a twin bill and then watch San Diego tangle with Seattle.

The Warriors dropped a big chance to just about finish San Diego Wednesday when they blew a 50-34 lead and lost to Atlanta 109-105. The offense folded early in the third quarter and the Warriors dropped a heartbreaker.

FISH AND GAME

Silver Salmon Plant For Papermill Creek

By AL GIDDINGS

About mid-March, 34,000 year-old silver salmon are going to be planted in Papermill Creek. This is great news! These fish are already a year old ready to go to sea and are a later-run strain of fish than planted in the past. They should return in November and December instead of the too early September-October returns of past plants.

If everything goes right these fish should go to sea next month before the stream trout season opens. This is the way it should be. Being planted in March, there should be minor losses so most should get to sea.

Being a later run strain, they should come back as grilse in November and December of this year. As fresh run fish they should readily take a lure or fly! They will weigh about two pounds. The main run of adults should return in November-December of 1972 as 8 to 13-pound fish. (If the sizes of the yearlings are over six inches when planted then the adult returnees could be much larger.)

The Department of Fish and Game is planting 30,000 of these fish, the Marin Municipal Water District is planting 4,000 to make up the losses due to an alum spill last year which killed fish.

How many fish can we expect back? I would hope that we get at least a 3 per cent return or about 1,000 adults. If we are lucky we could get a much better percentage return, but 3 per cent is about the usual number that returns. These silvers will also be taken by both sport fishermen and commercial fishermen in the ocean before they are due to return which cuts down on the percentage. This is great news. I'm all excited! You should be too if you're a Tomales Bay-Papermill Creek salmon fisherman!

I CALLED Dr. Loring Dales who took the tests for mercury on Sam Knoles and me. No results yet. California doesn't have the equipment to do the tests, and Michigan (budget troubles there too!) balked at doing the tests. Now, the doctor says things are back on the go ahead schedule so the results should be here soon??

THE WINDS have kayoed the bass fishing this past week or so. I got out twice fishing on the lee side of the Richmond Bridge. Marty Medin and I took two bass and three flounders one day. We used fly rods, twenty pound test monofilament 40 hooks and ghost shrimp. The tide was outgoing and almost low.

Then I went with Sam Knoles in Sam's new boat. Yep he bought one, and it's a pip! We broke it in with one 11-pound bass and one flounder. Same place as with Marty with the same bait, tide etc. I caught a couple of sharks, and one of them nailed me with that spiny bone these sharks have in their dorsal fin. So be careful. I wasn't pying much attention, thinking it was a sanc shark, and I grabbed it by the back. Ouch! No after effects — they are not poisonous, just painful.

FORTY-THOUSAND party boat logs for 1970 showed that 873,000 anglers landed 5,627,000 fish. It was an outstanding year for rockfish with a record of 2.6 million fish landed. Landings of barracuda, yellowtail and halibut were also up from the previous year, but other species were down. Some 98,259 salmon were taken as compared with 111,227 in 1969. Striped bass catches were 15,033 as compared with 20,087 in 1969 and sturgeon catches were 1,203 as compared with 1,951 in 1969.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game warned trout fishermen of the possibility of bad ice on many of the lakes and reservoirs just opened March 1. With fishing legal now through the ice, coupled with an extended warm period, the ice can be mushy instead of the normal hard thick ice expected at this time of the year. Snowmobiles offer a particular danger because of their extra weight.

I RECEIVED a letter from the Marin Skin Divers Club this week. They are having their annual "Trophy Dinner" at Dominic's in San Rafael at 8 p.m. tomorrow. Awards will be given for outstanding underwater films and photos. Some of the divers will receive cups for outstanding fish or abalone. Jackie Koehler, (a gal) is to win the award for this year's largest abalone. It measured 9⅞ inches. If you would like to attend this affair contact Betty Restoni at 107 Corrillo Drive San Rafael.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Most top bowlers carry a roll of electrical-type tape in their bowling bag. This is handy for adjusting the size of the thumb hole when weather or other factors cause your thumb to shrink or swell. It is far better to provide yourself with a comfortable thumb hole this way than to squeeze the ball or risk having it slip off your hand before you're ready.

A Phils Sellout

Wicks Gets Player Of Year Honor

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—The Sporting News has named Sidney Wicks, UCLA's 6-8 forward, college basketball player of the year and a member of its All-Americ a team for the 1970-71 basketball season.

Artis Gilmore of Jacksonville and Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky were named co-centers on the first squad after the paper said, "the two finished in a virtual deadlock in rating by the general managers of the American Basektball Association and the National Basketball Association."

In the other spots on the All-Americ a team, Wicks and Ken Durrett of LaSalle took the forward selections while Notre Dame's Austin Carr and John Roche of South Carolina were picked at guards.

PATENT ON BOAT

Hoping To Turn Hobby To Business

An adventure-seeking physicist from Sausalito who pioneered the building and sailing of hydrofoil trimarans and put his theories to practice by sailing his prototype vessel to Hawaii is now hoping to turn his hobby into a business.

David A. Keiper announced recently from Honolulu that the U.S. Government has granted him a patent based on the configuration of his trimaran, Williwaw. He also said that as soon as he can raise the necessary capital, he will begin manufacturing similar boats to be put on the market.

Keiper, a graduate of Cornell University who has taught physics at College of Marin and lists himself as a "consulting physicist" began work on the design of his craft eight years ago, and first realized his ambition with the successful ocean testing of the 31-foot, sloop-rigged boat in late 1967. After three years of testing and modification on San Francisco Bay and off the California coast Keiper undertook the pioneering voyage to Maui, Hawaii in September of last year.

With a one-man crew Keiper completed the passage in 16 days. At times the Williwaw achieved speeds of 25 knots, a pace made possible because of the configuration of the three-hulled craft, which allows it to lift entirely out of the water and "fly" at speeds greater than 12 knots.

Suit Filed Over Buying Of Stadium

NEW YORK (UPI) —A Manhattan lawyer Thursday sued New York City in State Supreme Court in an effort to halt the city's purchase of Yankee Stadium for $24 million.

Sidney Siller, who filed the suit, said the purchase of the stadium by the city would benefit only two profit-making corporations: the Yankees and the Giants. He also called the Mayor's decision to buy the stadium irresponsible since the city is in such dire financial need.

Mayor Lindsay announced Tuesday that the city would buy the stadium from Rice University in Houston, and also the land beneath it from the Knights of Columbus.

PRE-FIGHT ODDS AND ENDS

600 Writers For Bout; Ring Won't Be Smaller

NEW YORK (UPI)—Odds and ends on the Joe Frazier-Cassius Clay heavyweight title bout:

One additional measurement was included in the tale of the tape for the bout. It reads: Mouth (closed) Ali 4 inches, Frazier 4 inches; Mouth (open) Ali 11 inches, Frazier 6 inches ...

The ringside press corps for the bout will include 600 writers from around the world. Among the writers covering the story for magazines will be Budd Schulberg, William Saroyan and Norman Mailer, but Abbie Hoffman's request for three press tickets to cover the bout was turned down ...

In previous negotiations, Frazier demanded an 18-foot ring instead of the standard 20-foot size to help cut down Clay's running room. However, Monday night's ring will be the standard 20 feet "because we didn't want him (Clay) to say later that we had everything our way."

Edwin Dooley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, warned Clay at the pre-fight physical that he would have to go to a neutral corner in case he knocks down Frazier. "If he doesn't go to a neutral corner," Dooley said, "the count will stop at eight no matter if Frazier is on his feet or still down." Clay failed to go to his corner in fights with Sonny Liston, Cleveland Williams and Oscar Bonavena ... Because of the recent tax law allowing athletes to spread their "bonanza" income over five years, Clay and Frazier will pay a smaller percentage in taxes than Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis did in some of their million dollar bouts.

Frazier has signed to sing with his band, the Knockouts, at his own victory party at the Statler Hilton, right across from the Garden, after the bout. Ticket prices for the party range from $35 to $15, and Frazier promises to be there "if I'm not bruised up." ... Cassius Clay was elated to hear that former champ Joe Louis was picking Joe Frazier to win. "That's all I had to hear," Clay said. "Joe Louis never picked a winner in his life." Clay's wrong, though because Louis picked Clay in both victories over Sonny Liston.

At his training camp, Frazier watched films of five fights, but none of the fights included Clay. The films were all of Henry Armstrong's bouts. "Joe is a big Armstrong," said Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, "but Joe only watched the films once and lost interest." Armstrong held three titles and was known for his non-stop style of fighting.

No white towel will come fluttering in from either corner as a sign of defeat in the bout. The traditional white towels have been tinted to prevent glare on television ... Jess Williard (6-6 1-2) and Primo Carnera (6-5 3-4) were the only heavyweight champions taller than the 6-3 Clay. The 5-11 1-2 Frazier is shorter than any former champions except John L. Sullivan (5-10 1-4), Marvin Hart (5-11 1-4) and Rocky Marciano (5-10 1-2).

Frazier has had his problems with sparring partners. One was fired for spying for Clay, and another went on record as saying, "I'd give Clay the edge." Maybe it's because Frazier works his sparring partners notoriously hard for the $375 they earn each week. Frazier recently woke them up at 2 a.m. and said they were going to do five miles of roadwork. "When I run, everybody runs, and I didn't feel like sleeping."

Campaneris Signs A's Contract For $56,000

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI)—The Oakland A's have signed shortstop Campy Campaneris for $56,000, giving them a complete squad under contract as they opened their exhibition slate today.

Campaneris will arrive during the weekend from his Missouri home and therefore won't play in today's opener against San Diego here.

Sometimes negotiations are secret, but A's owner Charles O. Finley gave a blow-by-blow account of talks with his shortstop, who hit .279 in 1970, with 22 homers, 43 stolen bases and 64 rbi's in the leadoff position.

"Campy started at $70,000 came down to $65,000 and last night was at $60,000," Finley said. "We both agreed on $56,000 and Campy told me he hadn't expected to get $70,000 in the first place."

Campy, 28, got $40,000 last year. This will be his eighth year with the team.

Dog, Cat Boom Is Clinic's Target

Marin soon will have a birth control clinic for family pets.

John R. Sujohn, a semi-retired veterinarian, said today his ABC Clinic will be ready by Monday to begin doing its part to curb marin's dog and cat population boom.

"ABC stands for animal birth control," Sujohn explained. Wednesday he completed obtaining the necessary city permits for the clinic at 738 A Street, San Rafael.

"The Marin County Humane Society is swamped with unwanted animals; people cannot give away all the puppies and kittens their pets have," Sujohn said. "I don't want to continue a full-scale practice any more — I'm semi-retired — but this can be something that will benefit everyone."

Sujohn said he will perform up to 10 sterilization operations on male or female cats and dogs each day, but will refer all other veterinary problems to other clinics.

"By not treating diseased or injured animals, I won't need an expensive X-ray machine, a laboratory or a large stock of drugs required for a full-scale veterinary clinic. With less overhead, I will charge less for spaying and neutering," Sujohn declared. "More people will be able to afford birth control for their pets."

He said he would cooperate with a number of animal lovers' associations such as Pets and Pals in their low-cost spaying and neutering campaigns in Marin County.

A new state law requires spaying or neutering of all cats adopted through animal shelters. Humane societies and pet welfare groups have reported public reluctance to pay the additional costs for the surgery.

Pet owners will deliver their cats or dogs to the clinic's receptionist in the morning, and in most cases will take the animals home the same evening.

Each owner will be supplied with printed instructions for post-operative care, Sujohn said. "The rules are simple — don't allow any jumping or rough play, keep the animal indoors and quiet for a few days, and watch for a few symptoms that might mean complications."

The veterinarian said his sterilization fees would range from $10 for male cats to $20 for nonpregnant cats and dogs, and slightly higher if the females are pregnant.

The clinic's receptionist, Ricky Bryant of San Anselmo, also is a trained counselor in dog behavior problems.

Sujohn, a San Rafael resident for 14 years, was a veterinarian in Russia and Germany before coming to the United States more than 20 years ago. He still owns but no longer practices in a San Francisco clinic. He formerly had a small animal clinic on San Rafael's Miracle Mile, until the leased property was redeveloped.

Computer Brain Drain Man Pleads

OAKLAND (UPI)—Hugh J. Ward, 29, Menlo Park, a computer expert, pleaded innocent yesterday before Municipal Court Judge Stafford P. Buckley, to grand theft in the first recorded case charging information was stolen from a computer.

Ward, an employe of University Computing Service, Palo Alto, was charged with tapping information by telephone from Information Systems Design, Inc., an Oakland firm selling computer time to other firms.

The Oakland computer stores its memory banks with information that customers reach by a special code and account numbers. Ward was charged with picking the computer's brains by telephone.

Sergeant Terry Green of the Oakland Police Department fraud detail said evidence was found with Ward that corresponded with the computer program taken without authorization from the Oakland firm.

Dropping A Point Makes Headline Err

A composing-room error caused the headline of yesterday's I-J Reporter's Notebook to indicate the Marin County Schools Office Personnel Commission paid $5250 per page for an opinion survey of non-teaching employees. The amount paid was $50.50 per page for the 40-page document.

Jury-Court Bills Draw Stiff Blast

SAN JOSE (UPI)—The California Public Defenders Association has strongly opposed proposed legislation backed by district attorneys and peace officers.

The bills, introduced in the State Senate, would reduce both the size of juries and the number of jurors required to return a verdict, authorize electronic "bugging," in some cases and require defense disclosure of alibi witnesses.

Sheldon Portman, president of the association, said in a letter to Sen. Alfred Song, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, the bills would be "repressive and threatening to constitutional liberties."

"An insidious side effect," Portman said, "would be to give the public the misleading impression that by such simplistic solutions the problems of overburdened courts and of crime in our society can be improved without increased public expenditures."

City's Poker Bill Is Shunted Aside

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Board of Supervisor's legislative committee has voted unanimously to table a proposal that could have led to legalizing draw poker in San Francisco.

Supervisor Terry Francois, who had suggested the issue be put on the municipal ballot, changed his mind and declared he didn't want "anything to do with it."

Two boxes of used clothing, boots and household items collected by Redwood High School students in Larkspur, have been stolen from a storage shed at the Larkspur Lumber Co., police said yesterday.

The items, valued at about $40 were stolen sometime Wednesday afternoon or evening, officers said.

They had been collected for a rummage sale tomorrow at the school to benefit the student relief fund.
